Peking Protests!

Red Chinese Attack Biggest Yet

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Communist Chinese forces Friday launched a massive counter-attack with artillery and mortar fire on Indian troops at the eastern end of the disputed China-India border.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman said the morning attack north and west of the town of Walong had touched off what appeared to be the heaviest fighting on the border since major clashes began in October.

PROTEST NOTE

Meanwhile, China sent India a note protesting the massing of Indian troops on the border "in preparation for a new attack."

The note accused the Indians of opening heavy artillery fire on both sides of the border in recent days and repeated charges that one of the places where the buildup was taking place was Chumal, a key town in Ladakh, Kashmir, on the Indian side of what China regards as the border.

PURSED BACK

In their first offensive Friday the Chinese got to the outskirts of Walong but were pushed back by the Indians a mile or two from the town, the spokesman said.

He said despite heavy Chinese fire Indian troops had managed to occupy the forward slopes of a Chinese position.

MORTAR FIRE

The Chinese were using artillery and mortar fire against the Indians and heavy reinforcements were believed to have reached the Chinese division reported in the Walong area some days ago.

Walong is a small administrative centre of 300 to 350 people in the Lohit River valley some 5,000 feet up in the Himalayas. The town is 17 miles inside the McMahon Line, which India recognizes as the border with China but China does not.

OIL FIELDS

The Indian army has strongly reinforced Walong in a bid to halt the Chinese advance into an area which contains India's most important oil fields at Digboi and Nahorkatiya. There are also coal fields in the Assam area and British-owned tea plantations.

Earlier, Prime Minister Nehru turned down a proposal that India start compulsory military training on the grounds it would "not be wise."

Little 'Filth' for Youth Doesn't Do Any Harm

CALGARY (CP) — A "sampling" of pornographic literature doesn't do a child any harm, Vancouver Island author Roderick Haig-Brown said Friday.

Mr. Haig-Brown, who is also a juvenile court judge at Campbell River, said in an interview he wouldn't sanction mass reading of pornography by any age group "but a sampling by healthy individuals, including children, doesn't hurt."

"Of course, one wouldn't recommend this type of reading to unhealthy minds who get warped pleasure from that sort of thing," he said.

Mr. Haig-Brown, here to give a lecture on his latest juvenile book, said juvenile books are better than ever but one problem in their publication is interference from editors and publishers.

"Many editors put out books they shouldn't," he said. "Also, there's a tendency by them to reduce unusual talent."

Mr. Haig-Brown will travel to Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Saskatoon as he continues his western tour.

Vast U.S. Aid Depends On Nehru

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press

President Kennedy, paying increasing attention to the India-China border war, is considering a vast arms and program for India if he can reach a firm understanding with Prime Minister Nehru.

Just what Kennedy may have in mind is not too clear, but this much seems evident: Kennedy wants to see the harsh note of anti-Americanism eliminated or toned down in India; he wants to hear Nehru publicly declare support of U.S. foreign policy; and he wants to obtain convincing evidence for Congress that India is on the side of democracy and on the side of the United States in its struggle against communism.

Nehru may not find it easy to provide Kennedy with all that he wants. Traditionally, India has followed a policy of non-alignment, accepting help not only from the West but also from Russia. This has annoyed U.S. legislators. More annoying was the biting criticism of U.S. policy voiced by V. K. Krishna Menon, Nehru's former defence minister.

So far the United States has shipped about $5,000,000 worth of military equipment to India. Just how much further it is prepared to go has not been disclosed by the White House. The step up in the arms flow will take time. There will be no sudden rush to load Nehru down with all kinds of expensive equipment. But Americans believe time is on their side.

When the Chinese poured over the controversial McMahon Line at Namsaku River on the Tibetan border near Bhutan, the Indian troops holding the line had less than minimum requirements of ammunition.

More arms had been requested but no action had been taken at headquarters toward replenishing the deficiencies.

New Spiegel Crisis Greets Adenauer

BONN (Reuters) — West German Chancellor Adenauer returned here by air from Washington Friday night to face a renewed threat to his coalition regime over Der Spiegel affair.

As for the Cuban situation, he said: "The thing is not over yet. The matter still calls for our full attention."

PARTNER WARNED

Adenauer arrived home after his ruling Christian Democratic Union warned its junior coalition partner, the Free Democratic Party, against any new ultimatum.

CDU parliamentary leader Heinrich von Brentano met FDP leader Erich Mende and warned him against bringing the threatened cabinet crisis to a head.

But Mende told reporters

when he arrived in Berlin for a private conference Friday night his party did not intend to put forward an ultimatum because coming negotiations over Berlin mean West Germany needs "a fully active government and a constructive opposition."

The FDP is preparing for a party congress in Nuremberg next Monday amid unconfirmed reports it will demand the resignation of Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss for his actions in connection with the government's charges against the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror) — a persistent critic of the defence minister.

The opposition Social Democrats have already called for the dismissal of Strauss.

Collector Stops Dag Stamp Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sale of 1,000,000 deliberately misprinted stamps was halted Friday by the U.S. post office department under a restraining order obtained by a New Jersey man who has 50 of 400 original, unissued stamps.

Public sale of the Dag Hammarskjöld stamps was not stopped, however, until an eager public had gobbled up $75,000 of them in less than four hours.

Castro Threat Wasted U.S. Warns Russia

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Cuban crisis sharpened Friday with Russia defending Premier Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. planes and the U.S. declaring flights over Cuba would continue with all protection necessary.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin said Castro's protest against the U.S. reconnaissance flights "is perfectly legitimate" and that attempts to violate Cuban sovereignty "cannot but provoke universal condemnation."

But U.S. delegate Arthur Dean told the committee Castro's threat carries no weight with the U.S.

OWN MEASURES

Dean said that pending U.S.-Soviet agreement on all measures for verification of removal of offensive weapons from Cuba "the United States will be forced to continue to take its own appropriate measures to assure against the possibility that the people of the western hemisphere may be threatened from Cuban soil."

The exchange came amid mounting concern that the Cuban crisis may be approaching a new danger point.

In Washington, President Kennedy called in his top military and diplomatic advisers for consultation.

STRAUSS EYED

The FDP is preparing for a party congress in Nuremberg next Monday amid unconfirmed reports it will demand the resignation of Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss for his actions in connection with the government's charges against the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror) — a persistent critic of the defence minister.

The opposition Social Democrats have already called for the dismissal of Strauss.

CAR DEATH THIRD IN 30 HOURS

By BOB PETHICK

Death struck its third blow in about 30 hours on southern Vancouver Island highways yesterday—this time in a shattering two-car crash on the Malahat.

Felix Luckovich, 57, of Shawnigan Lake, driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway at 3:35 p.m., died almost instantly when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Helmut Mamte of the PPCLI at Work Point Barracks. Mr. Mamte was uninjured.

Dennis Fitzpatrick, also of the PPCLI at Work Point, was a passenger in the Mamte car. He was taken to hospital with severe face cuts caused when he smashed into the windshield and was later released.

Sidney-area crashed Thursday took two lives. (See Page 10.)

The accident took place one mile south of Mill Bay on a 60-mile-an-hour stretch. Police said the road was straight but dipped near the scene of the wreck.

STILL IN CAR

Witnesses said the dead man was still in his car when police arrived.

The Luckovich car ended up on the right shoulder of the road. The wreckage was presumably swerved after hitting Luckovich and lurched to a stop on the right shoulder of the road.

Distance between the cars was 28 feet. Both were total wrecks.

EXPECTING HIM

A hunting companion of Mr. Luckovich said he was expecting him to call in on his return from Victoria.

"We knew he left Victoria at noon or around then," said W. J. Clark, Sea View Avenue.

"We were expecting him but when I arrived at the accident his car was about 200 feet beyond our turnoff."

"I got there about five minutes after it happened. You

Only Miracle Left In Atlantic Search

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fierce storm yesterday forced two ships to give up the hunt for 13 crewmen lost at sea from a burning, explosive-loaded Greek freighter, leaving a lone plane and a wave-battered submarine to keep the search, hoping for a miracle.

The sailors, last seen Thursday night bobbing in the boiling sea trying desperately to cling together, were part of the 25-man crew that abandoned the Greek freighter Captain George just before darkness as flames ate steadily toward 400 tons of explosives on board.

Seven were quickly picked up by two freighters that had stayed in the area as long as they could in the face of the howling storm.

DEADLY SMOKE

The captain and his 24-man crew stayed aboard the 422-foot freighter fighting an 18-hour battle against the searing heat and deadly sulphuric-dioxide smoke before going overboard in two lifeboats.

At last report, the Captain George was still afloat and burning. The Coast Guard said its cargo of dynamite, nitrates and other explosives "could go" at any time, blasting the ship to bits.

These sailors converge at the town of Tawang, 10 miles south. This is considered the gateway to India (the Dalai Lama used it in 1959) and of immense importance strategically.

"We were occupying political positions, not tactical defenses," a brigadier told me with disgust.

Indians Had Only Courage to Hurl at Reds

By PETER WORTHINGTON

NORTHEAST FRONTIER

When you're with India's frontline fighting troops in the Himalayas the "war" with China seems almost casual.

Up here, 14,000 feet in the clouds, you learn facts about the war that news-reach the comparatively civilized south.

Among these troops in the Northeast Frontier Agency there's a feeling of outrage, humiliation and embarrassment that the Chinese caught them napping in the surprise attack last month and won so easily.

Officers and men tell you a horrifying tale of unpreparedness that is almost criminal negligence.

When the Chinese poured over the controversial McMahon Line at Namsaku River on the Tibetan border near Bhutan, the Indian troops holding the line had less than minimum requirements of ammunition.

More arms had been requested but no action had been taken at headquarters toward replenishing the deficiencies.

The Indian troops had virtually nothing but their courage to hurl at the enemy.

A platoon of the 10th Sikh Regiment on the border never had only enough ammunition to beat back two waves of five to six hundred each. The platoon was then ordered to withdraw.

But, to a man, the Sikhs refused to budge and fought the Chinese using their empty Lee Enfield rifles as clubs and slashing with their bayonets.

The platoon was annihilated; not a man survived.

At Bugula Pass a few miles away, another Sikh platoon (35 soldiers) was in a similar situation.

After fighting Chinese off for 12 hours by carefully reloading ammo and controlling fire, they finally ran out of ammo.

In the final Chinese assault Sikh mortarman Bahan Singh, regimental wrestling champion, leapt from his trench and charged at the enemy empty-handed.

Suddenly what was left of the platoon followed him over the top and was rushing yelling at the enemy.

The Chinese were so startled at this insane charge they suspected a trick and fell back.

The handful of survivors then made an orderly withdrawal.

I spoke to Sepoy (private)

Behan and his eyes fired up.

"My God, sir, my blood won't sleep until I get a chance to fight them again," he said.

Another platoon sacrificed itself at the village of Jang where they held a bridge until remnants of the brigade had escaped over it.

This platoon is now just a gallant memory.

At the time of the attack about a brigade (5,000 men) guarded 15 miles of Tibetan frontier through which two vital passes ran—the Kinnaur and Bumla passes.

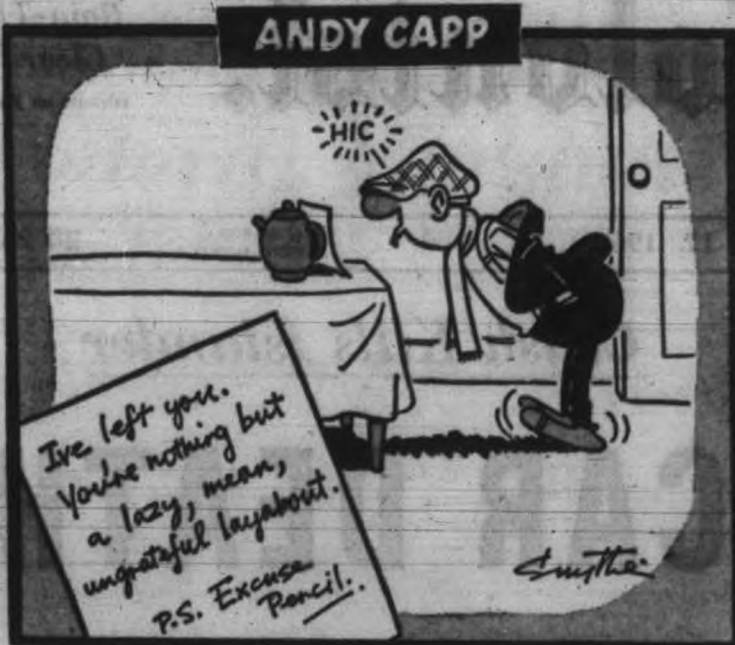

These valleys converge at the town of Tawang, 10 miles south. This is considered the gateway to India (the Dalai Lama used it in 1959) and of immense importance strategically.

"We were occupying political positions, not tactical defenses," a brigadier told me with disgust.

could see he was dead. It was probably a broken neck.

Police said impact marks on the two cars indicated the Mamte car swerved across the road—probably in an effort to miss the Luckovich car.

The overtaking car was heavily damaged on the right front. The Luckovich car was damaged most extensively on the rear.

Police said the Mamte car had to come over the brow of a hill before seeing the Luckovich car.

Mr. Luckovich was an avid sportsman and well-known in youth work.

He was a housebuilding contractor.

The accident victim is survived by a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Luckovich, at Silver Mine Trail, Shawnigan Lake.

An inquest will be opened tonight.

Men's Problems About Potency Usually Mostly in Mind

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Why is nothing ever written about middle-aged men whose sexual potency either slows down or in some cases fails completely?

Most males seem to believe that such potency is the measure of a man. When his powers fail, panic sets in and unless he is a pretty steady character there is likely to be trouble. No man is going to admit to others that such has happened to him, so there is absolutely no talk between them on the subject.—N.S.W.

I think you are right in your opinion. Men doubtless would be much better off if they would talk about this problem.

They probably would succeed in propagating a great deal of misinformation, as happens when women get to talking about the menopause. But after women have been exposed to enough obvious contradictions, they finally go to a reliable source and get the right answers. The men, poor souls, just worry in silence.

Without any question, the biggest cause of this lack of potency is emotional. Only in rare instances is it physical, and even then the situation is so obvious that it can hardly be missed.

That is why when men go to their doctors (yes, some do, but far too many don't!) the chief job is one of convincing such patients of the simple truth.

It can happen any time in the 40s, 50s or 60s, and I've even known it to occur in the early 20s. The man is tired, he is absorbed in worries over money, business, his job or whatever. He may not have been eating well, or sleeping enough. Pooped and abstracted, he suddenly finds that he has "lost his potency." Or so he thinks.

Once the thought pops into his head, it turns into an obsession. That finishes him! The more he worries, the less he relaxes. And yet relax he must.

The best "medicine" if you can persuade the man to take it, is a short vacation, perhaps only for a weekend, but soon. It should, psychologically, be so soon that he has to work his head off to get everything done in time to go. He stays so busy that he forgets to worry about lack of "potency." Then two or three days of just relaxing and enjoying himself puts him in a totally different mood.

Without quite realizing when, why or how, he finds himself "cured" (or improved).

Obviously the longer he lets his weary worry build up, the bigger the problem grows in his mind. Bottling up the fear inside is the worst thing he can do. Yet most men do just that.

Thus there are physical factors that have some weight. Lack of adequate diet is one; so is thyroid deficiency. Obesity is most decidedly another. But the biggest of all is the male trait of getting his emotions in such a knot that he can't untie them.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some religious groups fast a few days a year for 24-hour periods. Do you think it is healthy for the body not to have any food or liquids for a 24-hour period?—H.B.

The body ought to have water, but I see no harm in going without food that long, except in special cases. A victim of duodenal ulcers, for example, might suffer quite a bit.

Dear Dr. Molner: What happens to the water that goes into the ears from swimming? I say it drains out through the nose. My friend says this is impossible.—M.M.

It comes out the same way it went in. There is no open connection between the ear canal and the nose.

Racket Broken

New Policy on Chinese Entry

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration department believes it has broken the back of the racket to smuggle Chinese into Canada illegally, Immigration Minister Bell said Friday.

He informed the Commons that the lengthy investigation of illegal entries — variously estimated at 6,000 to 9,000 Chinese — now can be ended. It began early in 1960.

In addition, he said, the department is ready to accept the sworn word of Chinese here illegally as to the facts of their entry, with the proviso that if they fail to give the true facts in voluntary statements they will be barred from sponsoring immigration applications of relatives and others.

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Nowlan said Friday the government is not going to worry unduly about any "windfall" benefits exporters may derive from a sales-incentive tax measure passed Friday by the Commons.

He made the statement in reply to opposition assertions that the offer of tax concessions will prove an over-generous boon to export manufacturers. A manufacturing concern will be able to claim a 50 per cent tax rebate on taxable income up to $50,000 resulting from increased sales during a business year. On additional profits over $50,000 the rebate would be 25 per cent.

Poland, India Sign Deal for Equipment

WARSAW (AP)—Poland agreed to supply India with 155,000,000 rupees ($32,500,000) worth of mining and other industrial equipment in an eight-year economic co-operation pact signed here Friday. The pact called for repayment in rupees, with 3½ per cent a year interest, to be used by Poland for financing purchases from India.

Names in the News

Bombings Used In Holdups

NEW YORK — Manacled Bobby Randall Wilcoxson pleaded innocent to robbery-murder charges as the FBI accused him and his partner of a series of "mad bombings" in Washington in 1961 to divert police while they robbed a bank.

The FBI in Washington said the 33-year-old, one-eyed Wilcoxson and Albert Nussbaum planted four bombs in the nation's capital. Three went off. Among the bank holdups of which the pair are accused is the robbery of the Brightwood branch of the Bank of Commerce in Washington on June 30, 1961. The $18,852 robbery took place while police were busy disarming one of the four bombs.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Tyrone Power was eulogized by Second World War flying ace Pappy Boyington and actor Raymond Massey at memorial services marking the fourth anniversary of his death. A cross of white carnations from his second wife, Linda Christian, and their two children was placed across Power's tomb at Hollywood Memorial Park cemetery.

NEW YORK — A man with an iron will and a supple spine, Timothy Athos, 24, made it in to the New York City police department today after six months of stretching exercises to boost his normal height of five feet, 7½ inches to the minimum five-foot-eight requirement.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. — The will of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, listed as in excess of $50,000 was filed for probate Thursday. Mrs. Roosevelt, who died Nov. 7, bequeathed the furnishings and other property in her Hyde Park cottage to her son John Roosevelt and personal property from her New York apartment to her four other children James, Elliott, Franklin Jr., and Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Halstead.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Ralph Errol Cooke, 85, father of Jack Kent Cooke, died in hospital after a coronary thrombosis.

VANCOUVER — Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller said the death of her husband will not affect her plans to run as Social Credit candidate in the Dec. 17 Vancouver Point Grey byelection. Mrs. Burns-Miller, 62, has been promised a cabinet seat by Premier Bennett if she wins.

QUESNEL — James Willard Boyce, 20, a resident of the Canim Lake Indian Reserve was sentenced to two years less a day on a reduced charge of manslaughter. He was originally charged with non-capital murder in connection with the death of Anthony James Emile, 16.

LOS ANGELES — Attorney Marvin R. Miller, 29, who claimed he required 200 stitches to close lacerations on his arm when he fell through a glass shower door in an apartment owned by Burt Lancaster has sued the actor for $150,000.

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — A county grand jury accused federal marshals Friday of "agitating and provoking violence" in a night of bloody rioting over racial segregation at the University of Mississippi.

The grand jury returned two indictments in the case but, under Mississippi law, the names of the persons and the charges will be kept secret until arrests are made.

NOT RESIDENTS

Circuit Judge Walter M. O'Barr told reporters the persons indicted were not residents of Mississippi.

He also said that "neither the president nor the attorney-general was named."

O'Barr, a Mississippi native, previously charged the 23-man grand jury to indict anyone who helped incite the Sept. 30 riot at the university—including President Kennedy and "stupid little brother Robert Kennedy," U.S. attorney-general.

TEAR GAS

In its final report, the grand jury assailed chief U.S. Marshal James P. McShane for his order to fire tear gas toward demonstrating crowds. The night Negro James Meredith entered the university under federal court orders.

The jury said it found no evidence to show who fired the .38-calibre revolver shots that killed French reporter Paul Guillard, 30, of Agne France-Press, and Walter Ray Gunter, 23, an Oxford juke box repairman.

The report said Gunter was killed by a "stray" bullet but that "Mr. Guillard was murdered."

Police Trap Bandits

WANSTEAD, England—The West Essex Conservative club, whose president is Sir Winston Churchill, has named its new women's bar "the Clementine bar" after Lady Churchill.

LONDON—Ann Firth, 21, Britain's first trade union queen, said she had formed a union for beauty contest winners because "a beauty queen is entitled to fair play the same as anyone else."

PARIS — French painter Jean-Paul Domergue, 73, collapsed and died on a downtown Paris street.

BANGKOK—Crown Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands arrived here for an unofficial visit as guest of Thailand's royal family.

BRUSSELS — Japanese Premier Hayato Ikeda, here on a two-day visit, lunched with King Baudouin.

PRETORIA — Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster has published a list of 437 "statutory Communists" whose statements may not be published in South Africa.

Russian Deserter Hid In Cellar for 21 Years

MOSCOW (UPI)—A Soviet army deserter cowered for 21 years in the cellar under his home like a "living corpse," the newspaper Pravda reported Friday.

Feodor Shernov's ordeal began in 1941 when he was called up for military service at the age of 37. He deserted. "I am ill," he told his wife.

Change of Mind

THOUGH THE United States was clearly the winner of the first major victory in the battle over Cuba it has become startlingly evident in the past week that it may find itself forced to consolidate its gains if it hopes to bring hostilities to a successful conclusion.

The events leading to this development have resulted not from any weakening of American purpose but rather through a hardening of the Russian attitude—if not a complete reversal of its original conciliatory stand over the matter.

Obviously Premier Khrushchev has now had time to assess the Communist bloc's reaction to his unexpected compliance with Washington demands and has found that it is looked upon as nothing less than an ignominious retreat from a position of strength.

Particularly hard to bear for him must be the gibes directed at his regime from Peking, to say nothing of the rumblings of discontent from Cuba itself. These in themselves would likely be sufficient for him to attempt to recover some of the face he feels he has lost in the eyes of his own allies.

In a desperate move to recover his standing he is now preparing to welch on his solemn undertaking by adopting the delaying tactics of arguing the interpretation of the United States' demands—demands which were clear and concise and wholly agreed to by him when they were made.

Wise President Kennedy has refused to be drawn into debate on the subject and has rejected all suggestions that wider discussions between Russia and America on ways to lessen world tension should commence before the Cuban situation is settled.

Premier Khrushchev's eventual intentions will become apparent within the next few days, when he will be faced with either supporting Dr. Castro's aggressive threats against the United States or rejecting them as he has already in effect promised to do.

Where Blame Lies

A WIDELY-FLUNG campaign apparently aimed to discredit Canada and Canadian business has been noted in the United States following this country's supposedly reluctant enthusiasm for the recent Cuban activities.

Whether the connection between the two is deliberate or merely coincidental is not yet clear.

A Senate committee currently investigating the nickel industry has been particularly hard on the Canadian firm, Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd., and to a lesser degree the International Nickel Company of Canada.

Falconbridge has been accused of profiteering while U.S. soldiers were dying in Korea, by selling nickel to the U.S. government at a premium of 40 cents a pound.

The United States defence department at that time was making heavy demands for its stockpile, and Falconbridge was not able to supply the amount required. The Canadian company was pressed by the department to expand its facilities and was offered a generous contract to enable it to do so. One of the current issues is whether Falconbridge actually spent the money from the contract as stipulated, although there is no doubt that it filled the terms of its production requirements.

The whole effect, whatever the conclusions may be, is tending to smear Canadian industry, and it may be a matter of some interest at this point to note at the time of the deal in 1952-53, the president and top administrator of Falconbridge was Thayer Lindsey, U.S. mining man, born in Yokohama, Japan, of U.S. parents.

If the U.S. influence is strong in Falconbridge, it is stronger still in International Nickel, which is a Canadian company in little more than name. Its head office is in New York and its top executives are U.S. citizens.

There has also been criticism of the tactics used by the B.C. lumbermen in their efforts to persuade the U.S. that there should be no new tariffs or no quotas on Canadian lumber imports to the U.S. The lumbermen have been accused of deliberately falsifying unemployment figures.

Here again the U.S. criticism against Canada must be tempered by the fact that about half the Canadian lumber imported by the U.S. comes from firms which are either Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms or are completely in U.S. ownership.

It would thus seem that much of the "lack of nobility" charged by U.S. investigators against Canadian business should indeed be more properly directed against U.S. corporations and individuals who may be using their Canadian offshoots to perform acts they would be unwilling to take in their own country.

Of Flaps and Slugs

IN THESE DAYS of sombre news and developing crises, it is pleasant to note that odd, happy, unusual and harmless events still go on in the world. From Russia, for instance, we hear that Soviet scientists are working on a plane which will fly by flapping its wings, while from Britain we learn that the headmaster of Gordonstoun school still doesn't know whether or not Prince Charles was "dunked" on his birthday.

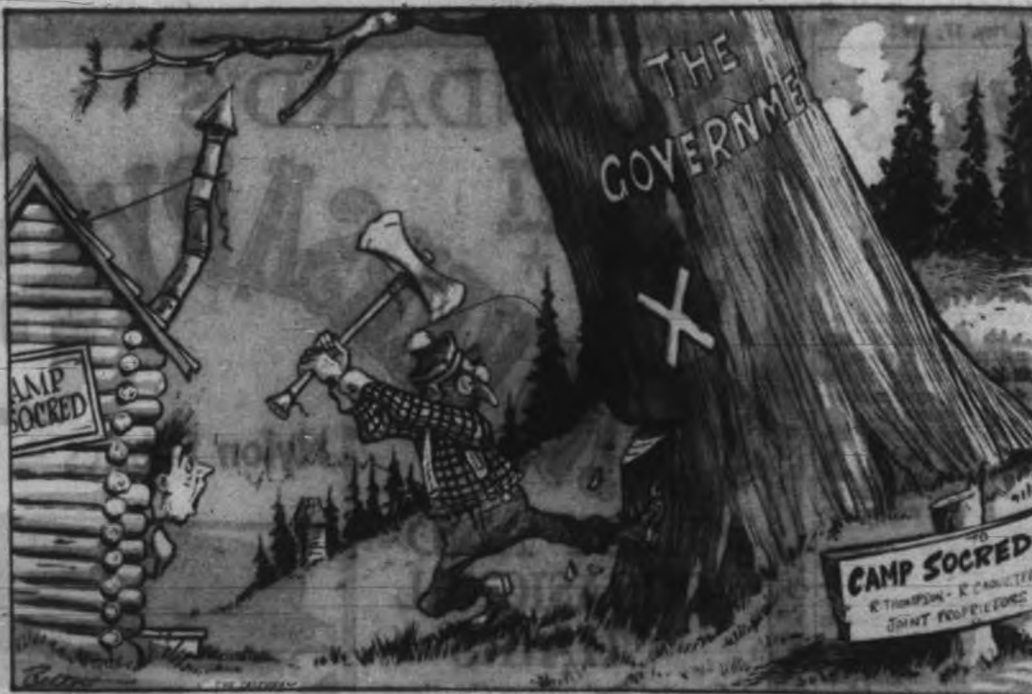

Closer home, Ottawa dispatches reveal that Mayor Charlotte Whitton brightened up city affairs by slugging Controller Paul Tardiff—perhaps not altogether a happy affair, but odd, anyway.

Adding to this gaiety is the report that Australian automobile workers have ended a strike on the assurance that the company would give them a free cup of tea and time off to drink it every working day. In Paris, Texas, a cleaning shop proprietor found his wallet and contents intact in a pile of old laundry bags. He lost it way back in June, 1959.

It is also interesting, perhaps even comforting, to recall that during the week two red pillow covers were sent off to Premier Khrushchev by 81-year-old Englishman Walter Kaye. "They'll help keep his bald head warm during the Moscow winter," the kindly octogenarian said.

It was also the week which not only saw the world raw egg-eating record broken by a 19-year-old East African student who gulped down 45 raw eggs in five minutes and 40 seconds, but provided the time for Illinois University's physiology department to issue a report advising long-distance drivers to eat peanut-brittle because "the sound of chewing it keeps them awake."

Can all this mean that the world is once again returning to peaceful sanity?

"Hey . . . Wait!"

Report from Ottawa

An Old Political Pastime

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

ABOUT the facts of the case, there appears to be little or no dispute. Mr. George Hogan, national vice-president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, addressed a closed meeting of the "Rosseau Group." Few federal Conservatives would know the Rousseau Group if they tripped over it. It is, however, a group of Conservative-minded young men similar in many respects to the Bow Group which operates in the United Kingdom.

The "Bow" Group, it would seem, is little better known in Ottawa than the Rousseau Group.

However that may be, Mr. Hogan, addressing a closed meeting of the Rousseau Group, said bluntly and without qualification that the Canadian government should make four essential changes in its defence and foreign policies.

Item, Canada should break off diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Item, Canada should place an embargo on trade with Cuba.

Item, the Canadian government should place a time limit on its undertaking not to accept nuclear arms for Canada's armed forces.

Item, the senior Canadian officer at NORAD should be given blanket authority to place the RCAF component on full alert in a situation similar to the Cuban emergency.

Now the government which Mr. Hogan said should make these far-reaching policy changes belongs to the very party of which Mr. Hogan is such a distinguished member. By implication, at least, Mr. Hogan's speech constituted a serious criticism of the Conservative government which he helped elect.

Does the Hogan speech mean that the Conservative government faces a revolt within the party's own ranks? Or does it mean, perhaps, that Mr. Hogan was plumping for changes which he had some reason to believe were in the offing?

The question of the Hogan speech was raised in the Commons without delay, naturally enough, by former Liberal transport minister Lionel Chevrier, who invited Prime Minister Diefenbaker to shed some light on the matter.

The prime minister, though, was not disposed to be helpful. He replied, but his reply was unconvincing. All he knew about the speech, he said, was what he read in the newspapers.

"Whatever statements were made," he added, after the shortest of pauses, "were the personal views of the individual in question."

Liberal ex-health minister Paul Martin expressed surprise that the government, in its policy-making, should take no cognizance of the views of its national vice-president. But Mr. Diefenbaker had an answer for this too. He was sure that Mr. Martin would remember occasions when Liberal Party officials had said things which weren't quite consistent with Liberal government policies. This point, the Liberals didn't feel disposed to argue.

It is doubtful, though, if a single solitary politician of any standing who has an interest in the matter, believes for a moment that the Hogan speech was an innocent blurt by a ham-handed party officer who didn't know that he was trespassing in the field of government policy.

There are persuasive reasons for this skepticism.

Mr. Hogan is and has been close to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He scarcely fits the part of an innocent abroad.

Although he spoke at a "closed meeting"—which should mean that the news media wouldn't be told what happened at it and might not even be informed that such a meeting was held—the meeting was scarcely over before official texts of the Hogan speech were being offered to newspapers, radio and television stations and any other parties that might be interested.

Further, it is known that Mr. Hogan was in Ottawa a day or two before he spoke to the Rousseau Group. Whether or not he saw Mr. Diefenbaker, he certainly met a number of other high-ranking members of cabinet.

These facts have served to convince many observers that in his speech to the Rousseau Group, Mr. Hogan was indulging in the ancient and honorable pastime known as kite-flying and trial-balloon-ing.

Rules of the game are simple. A government which is contemplating policy changes and wishes to test public sentiment about some of the changes it has in mind may do so, with little or no risk, by inducing some one outside the government to suggest publicly that such things should be done.

The government playing the game watches with folded hands to see what happens. If the proposed changes are unpopular, the government claims it has never heard of them before and points out that the proposals were advanced by someone unconnected outside the government as being, presumably, his own personal views. But should the ideas, secure public backing, the government proceeds to implement them with a minimum of delay.

Which may be what the government and Mr. Hogan had in mind.

Sino-Indian Conflict

RUSSIA is far more worried by the conflict between China and India than by her setback in Cuba, according to well-informed Soviet bloc sources.

The Sino-Indian conflict has not only intensified the strains within the Soviet bloc between Moscow and Peking. In sharpening conflict China has challenged Mr. Khrushchev's basic policy of peaceful coexistence and threatened to wreck one of the main pillars of his foreign policy—the prospect of gradually winning influence over the "third part" of the world, the non-aligned countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

The Soviet bloc sympathizers with the Khrushchev line on peaceful coexistence believe that China's attack on the Indian border has two main motives of political prestige, apart from the superficial one of securing an improved frontier.

First, China is trying to prove her claim to be the paramount power of Asia. She wishes to demonstrate the weakness of her chief rival, India, in the hope that the smaller countries of Asia, and indeed the whole group of non-aligned Afro-Asian countries who were associated with the Bandung conference, will lose confidence in Indian political leadership.

Secondly, China is trying to demonstrate to the Russians the rightness of her views about the treatment of non-aligned countries. The Russians have attached the greatest importance to establishing good relations with the non-aligned governments, even when they were more nationalist than left-wing, and even when they were fighting and imprisoning their local Communists.

Challenge to Khrushchev

By ROBERT STEPHEN from London

The Chinese have favored greater support for local Communist parties, even if it means conflict with the local national government.

One of the first demonstrations of this difference of view was in the middle East. Both in Egypt and in Iraq Mr. Khrushchev continued to give military and economic aid to both Nasser and Kassem, in spite of the fact that Egyptian and Iraqi Communists were being jailed by the hundred.

Except for one brief period, when Khrushchev wagged his finger in a speech at the Egyptians and got a defiant mind-your-own-business reply from Nasser, the Russian protests were confined to occasional critical comments in the Soviet party, and trades union press. But the Chinese publicly attacked Nasser and forced the withdrawal of an Egyptian mission from Peking, while in Iraq they encouraged the local Communists in defiance of Russia.

In their recent propaganda the Chinese have obviously set out to show India to be the most glaring example of the ineptness of dealing with bourgeois nationalist governments, while leaving the local Communists in the lurch. Mr. Nehru has been attacked as the "instrument of imperialism," as letting himself be used as the leader of an imperialist crusade against China.

If Mr. Khrushchev can be forced to abandon his policy towards India, the biggest and most influential non-aligned country, then probably he will have to admit the error of his policy towards the non-aligned in general. He would be forced to abandon his idea of a three-part world—Communist, Western and neutral—in which non-Communist neutrals may be persuaded to side with the Communists. In its place he would have to incline towards the more rigid Chinese conception of the classical revolutionary struggle between Communists and the rest, in which nationalists like Mr. Nehru are not potential friends, but simply class traitors.

But at the moment there is every sign that Mr. Khrushchev is not going to let himself be forced into this position. His answer so far has been to begin a diplomatic counter-offensive to settle the Sino-Indian conflict by negotiation, using as his chief instrument precisely those nationalist non-aligned governments—such as that of President Nasser—whose friendship he has taken the trouble to cultivate.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

AT one of those friends' homes where they never dream of turning off the TV when visitors drop in, there was a little gathering the other evening, when one of the guests introduced a rather goody parlor game.

Conversation having resumed smartly when "some commercials came on to interrupt the show, this guest said:

"Did you ever figure out how few of these things they advertise you personally buy?"

This started a most interesting evening. Instead of being tongue-tied by the show, we

Economic Aid Needed

Turkish Buffer

By a Special OFNS Correspondent from Ankara

ALTHOUGH the Russians agreed to withdraw their missile bases in Cuba regardless of Western bases in Turkey, it looks as if discussions between East and West may eventually lead to a mutual reduction of bases, including the Turkish.

Turkey has long been considered one of the most important Western bases in NATO. Nuclear missiles stationed here can reach further into Russia than from any other allied country. The 15 Jupiter-type intermediate-range ballistic missiles believed to be situated here could bring swift nuclear devastation to most of the big Russian cities, including Moscow and Leningrad, and could penetrate to the great Soviet industrial complexes situated beyond the Urals and even into Soviet Central Asia.

In addition, Turkey has a complex of other Western military installations, mainly defensive. There is an elaborate fringe of radar early warning systems along the Turkish Black Sea coast and several important tracking stations. One of these, about 10 miles east of Diyarbakir, is said to be one of only three of its kind in the world and can immediately track any missile sent up from Russia or Siberia.

Western forward air bases here include the large newly constructed airfield at Cigli, near Izmir, and the air base at Injirlik, near Adana in South Turkey, which was used in the movement of American troops at the time of the Lebanon crisis in 1958 and from which Captain Gary Powers made his famous U2 flight over the Soviet Union in May, 1960. These bases are used by bombers of the American Strategic Air Command. Nuclear warheads are under American control.

There are also an estimated 15,000 American military personnel in Turkey. Although the extent of American military aid has never been released, it is believed to have averaged $200,000,000 a year during the 12 years since Turkey joined NATO.

During the Cold War period Turkey has been considered of vital importance strategically for two main reasons: she commands the straits and hence access to the Russian ports in the Black Sea; and, secondly, she is interposed between the subversive influences of the Soviet Union and the somewhat unreliable Arab countries of the Middle East.

Turkey's value as a missile base has been lessened by new developments, particularly the Polaris submarine which can fire nuclear missiles while submerged, and practically obviates the need for fixed and highly vulnerable land bases.

Would the dismantling of Western bases in Turkey have any internal political effects? If the withdrawal were limited only to the missile bases, probably not. These bases have never been particularly popular in Turkey; many Turks have considered them a source of greater danger than advantage since they invited attack from the Soviet Union.

The effect of a bargain over bases and military establishments generally, however, might result in reducing Turkey's value in Western eyes and the Turks would certainly be sensitive to any such development. The main concern of every Turkish government during the last 15 years has been to play up the country's military and strategic value in order to obtain maximum economic assistance from the Western powers. Turkey literally hitched her wagon to the Cold War.

If the dismantling of the Turkish bases were to reduce Turkey's value to the West, while at the same time the Soviet Union gave some firm guarantee of Turkish territorial integrity (and it would take a good deal to convince the Turks on this), it is not impossible that Turkey would move nearer to a pro-Western but non-aligned position, not unlike that of India.

Most people here agree that what Turkey needs is less military aid and more economic aid; that the West should stop thinking of Turkey as a sort of aircraft carrier, or at best as a piece of useful territory between Russia and the Middle East, but as a poor and backward country, with a galloping birthrate and an insufficient food supply, crying out for every kind of reform. It is a mistake to regard Turkey as a safe buffer which, whatever happens, will always be on the side of the West.

Certain Western powers, notably France and Italy, have consistently blocked Turkey's long-standing application to become an associate member of the Common Market. Turkey's object in this is political rather than economic—the desire to be part of the European community. If Turkey is allowed into Europe she is likely to stick by the West; if she is excluded, however, she might well go neutralist, or worse, drift nearer to the other main bloc. Such an eventually cannot be ruled out.

To Guide Growth

Canadian 'Neddy'

By PETER DEMPSON

CANADA will soon have a counterpart of the British "Neddy."

The main function of the proposed new National Economic Development Board, announced in the Throne Speech at the opening of Parliament, will be to co-ordinate planning and policies of business, industry, labor and other groups in the economy.

The board is likely to be the "special responsibility" of Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon, minister without portfolio. Finance Minister Nowlan and Labor Minister Starr will also be closely associated with it.

"Neddy," as Britain's recently-established organization is known, has been given the role of launching a broad and co-ordinated assault on the economic problems facing that country.

Canada's "Neddy" will be expected to do the same.

Preparations are now under way for the creation of the new board. Details, not yet spelled out, will be outlined soon in the Commons.

The Canadian board, like the British, will have a small staff of experts in economic research and planning. This central staff will conduct studies of the economic situation for submission to the representatives of industry, labor, as well as to the government.

The new body will be headed by a prominent Canadian as chairman. Leading figures in the field of industry and labor will be drafted to serve on it.

While the board will report to the government through Mr. Nowlan and Senator McCutcheon, it will be given a large degree of independence from the administration. It will also be freed from the strictures of the Civil Service Act.

Creation of the Canadian "Neddy" will be a big step toward the concept of the planned economy. However, it will be a long way short of the more ambitious planning used in Western Europe.

Even this step, it is learned, was not taken without considerable soul-searching within the ranks of the Conservative Party.

In Britain, "Neddy" follows the pattern of programming in use in much of the new Europe. But it is not binding on the government.

The Canadian plan won't be, either—it will serve as a model aimed at keeping different segments of the economy growing as projected.

"The new board," says Mr. Nowlan, "will provide a broad new bridge between the government and those who are planning the future of industry, labor, agriculture and other important economic groups."

"Public enterprise and private enterprise can be partners, if they work together for a single expansive purpose."

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Island united with the then colony of British Columbia 96 years ago today—in 1866. British Columbia had been created a colony in 1858 and in 1871 the United colony entered Confederation as the Province of British Columbia. The island was first visited by Capt. James Cook in 1778 but was named for Capt. George Vancouver who explored and surveyed its coast in 1792.

1887—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein was born.

1959—A Canadian proposal for global study of atomic radiation was unanimously approved by the United Nations general assembly.

"We never seem to have any luck with collectives."

Canadian Satellite Overdoing It

OTTAWA (CP) — The Defence Research Board is like the fabled sorcerer's apprentice who got the broom to carry water for him and then couldn't stop the flood.

The board's Alouette research satellite has been so successful that some scientists said Friday, only half-jokingly, that it might eventually have to be switched off to stop the flood of data pouring from it.

Scientists in charge of the project now calculate that the Alouette, launched Sept. 23 aboard a U.S. rocket from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., will transmit six hours of data a day for 600 days. After that, it will still be able to send back to earth three hours of data a day until the electronic equipment fails.

Even after that, the satellite will stay in orbit for years. There is some dispute whether this will be two, three or five centuries.

The main problem now is the reduction of data on the ionosphere, cosmic rays and noise and the like to useable proportions, and its analysis.

Scientists at other countries particularly interested in the ionosphere have complimented the Defence Research Board on the unusually good data obtained from the satellite. They have sent congratulatory cables, telegrams and letters. After 48 days aloft, the Alouette whirled around the earth, 600 miles up, some 672 times in a near-polar orbit.

It had been expected that the radiation belt created by a U.S. nuclear test over the Pacific July 9 would have gradually destroyed the satellite's solar cells — source of its power — in a few months.

However, it now has been determined that the radiation belt caused only a 20-per-cent loss of power in the first 11 days. The rate of damage slows with time so that only 50 per cent of power will be lost in the first 600 days. There has also been deterioration of solar cells through action of tiny meteorites.

Scientists said there has not been a single failure yet in the complex electronic equipment and there has been no need to use spare units.

Diphtheria Quarantine In Toronto

TORONTO (UPI) — Five families were under quarantine as possible carriers yesterday after Toronto listed its first diphtheria death in 10 years.

Medical officer of health Dr. A. E. J. Boyd said there was no "danger of an epidemic."

The victim was a two-year-old girl.

New Advice Proposed On Fallout

WASHINGTON (CP) — A U.S. government advisory body, apparently seeking to dispel public concern over the dangers of radioactive fallout, plans to produce what it describes as "clarifying" statements next month to show that the present amount of fallout is not serious.

An official of the federal radiation council said the council will in no way attempt to revise or interfere with established radiation guidelines. It merely wants to add a clarifying note to show that a person may absorb many times the radiation limits established by the guidelines and still be free from any health hazard.

Under Bond

VANCOUVER (CP) — A member of the Marine Workers Union has been ordered to post a peace bond for threatening a salesman during the recent strike at Allied Engineering Limited.

Donald Ferguson testified that Calvin Dixon threatened him while he was driving five new employees through a picket line Oct. 22.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. lumber industry Friday upped its demands by asking the tariff commission to reduce softwood imports from Canada to less than half of last year's $250,000,000 level.

The National Lumber Manufacturers' Association and the Lumbermen's Economic Survival Committee filed a supplemental brief with the tariff commission stating that a tightened quota was needed because of last month's forest destroying Pacific Coast storm.

The storm has wrought a major disaster, the brief said.

WOULD BOOST OUTPUT

It said salvaging the timber that was blown down in the Oct. 12 storm would increase U.S. softwood lumber production by at least one billion board feet a year for the next three years. The U.S. market could not absorb both the added U.S. production and low-priced Canadian imports, it said.

It called for a quota of 65 per cent of U.S. consumption, instead of the 10 per cent quota it asked before the storm.

Canadian lumber accounted for an estimated 13.1 per cent of U.S. consumption last year. U.S. industry spokesmen have estimated Canadian mills have increased their share to 15 per cent this year.

STILL SEEK INCREASE

U.S. lumbermen left unchanged their requests for a tariff boost from a ceiling of $1 to $5 per thousand board feet — and for reinstatement of the requirement that Canadian lumber be marked as to country of origin.

The Canadians, in a brief filed Thursday for the council of forest industries of British Columbia, had said the storm would aid the U.S. industry because it would make more timber available at lower prices.

MILLS COULD RE-OPEN

The sudden augmentation of the timber supply available for harvest will permit some closed mills to re-open and others to operate at full capacity in the affected areas, the Canadian brief said.

It was understood the Canadians would stand on this argument and would not make a new statement to the commission.

Magistrate 'Ruined Man'

By SKIP KELLAR

WINNIPEG (TNS) — The magistrate who sentenced a 34-year-old mother of 11 to two years' virtual imprisonment in her own home, complains he is now a "ruined man."

Magistrate Isaac Rice, in agitated tones, accused the press of "ruining me" because of public reaction to the unusual sentence handed out to Mrs. Rita Dziedziora.

"My wife and daughter have also been threatened," Magistrate Rice said.

Mrs. Dziedziora, meanwhile, who had pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods, said she didn't mind being confined to her house too much except that "the kids are driving me batty."

Mrs. Dziedziora, a Metis, (part Indian and part white) was also placed on the interdicted list by the magistrate and forbidden to drink alcohol for the rest of her life.

Extra Jobs Sought

Applications for the 540 extra jobs at the Victoria Post Office, to be created for one to two weeks during the Christmas rush, have already started to pour in to the National Employment Office, manager George Bevis said yesterday.

Special registration for the jobs opened this week, causing an increase of about 70 male and 200 female applications for employment.

NO BIG CHANGE
Mr. Bevis said there has been no noticeable change in employment conditions this week and nearly all industries are working full crews.

The number of vacancies is dropping slightly but there is still a steady flow of jobs available in a wide variety of skills.

WORK AVAILABLE

Jobs are now available for a wheel alignment mechanic, TV repairman, bricklayer, computer operator, taxi driver, millman for woodwork and a clerk-typist as well as a variety of sales jobs.

New Soviet Book Rules Out War To End Disputes

MOSCOW (UPI) — The new official history of the Soviet Communist party rules out war as a means of settling disputes and says the struggle against the West must be waged in the context of peaceful co-existence.

The book also contains an expanded criticism of the misdeeds of the late Josef Stalin. Published here this week, the book supersedes the 1959 version which merely stressed the need for peaceful co-existence between states with differing social systems. The current edition fully backs Premier Nikita Khrushchev's doctrine: "Ideological and political disputes between states should not be settled by war," it says.

It also says peaceful co-existence "cannot lead to renunciation of the class struggle nor to the bourgeoisie's ideological and political disputes between states should not be settled by war," it says.

Sentence Confusing To Confined Mother

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mrs. Rita Ellen Dziedziora, 34-year-old mother of 11 children, said in an interview Friday she doesn't know whether she can leave her house or not.

A two-year suspended sentence was imposed on her Nov. 2, with the condition that she could not leave her house for two years and that she could have no visitors other than close relatives, after she pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing stolen goods.

However, Magistrate Isaac Rice later qualified the order by telling the court probation officer, Mrs. Nora Milne, she could use her discretion in allowing Mrs. Dziedziora to go shopping, go to church or visit the penitentiary, where the man with whom she was living is serving a sentence.

"The magistrate also told a Baptist minister he could visit her," Mrs. Milne, the probation officer, said. "Basically, the sentence is for the protection of the family. The magistrate may have been a little melodramatic or emphatic when he passed sentence on her to emphasize the importance, but he was only doing what he thought was right."

"He told me to be humane and to use my own discretion."

To Wipe Out Deficit

Program of Austerity For Victoria Chamber

Move to wipe out a predicted $3,000 deficit in the Victoria Chamber of Commerce 1962-63 budget by belt-tightening in office procedures were approved by chamber directors yesterday.

At the same time, chamber president John Wallace appointed a committee to investigate possible revision of chamber membership fees to produce some reserve funds for the chamber.

STAFF REDUCED

A two-man committee of David Lawson and Allan Leith recommended the economies, approved yesterday, which include a reduction in chamber mailings to its members and laying off of one of the chamber's three female office workers.

Mr. Wallace said the proposals by Mr. Lawson and Mr. Leith, who have been inquiring into office procedures, are expected to balance the budget but provide no cash reserve.

FEES LOW

He said "we don't want to lose members by reason of increased rates" but present membership fees in the Victoria chamber are low compared with the national average.

He appointed a four-man committee to report in two months on rate revision.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, and more than 100 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's home address.

Mr. Tom Clark in his letter to the Colonist (Nov. 13), has I believe completely misinterpreted the aims of the Canadian anti-nuclear campaign.

A nuclear war between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. would be a terrible thing to happen, but a nuclear war between the U.S., Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Turkey, Israel, Italy, Spain, France, West Germany, and the U.K. on the one side, and the U.S.S.R., Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, East Germany, Yugoslavia, Albania, Mongolia, Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam, and Cuba on the other, would be the end of the civilized world as we know it.

We do not forget that the U.S. is the greatest anti-communist power in the world, nor do we forget that the U.S.S.R. is the greatest anti-capitalist power in the world. What we are attempting to do is to confine nuclear weapons to the two main protagonists until such time as they can be banned altogether.

With reference to the charge that Ben the bomb people are only trying to save themselves in the event of a nuclear war between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., Canadian skies would undoubtedly be the battleground for the anti-missile missile, and Canada would hardly be a health resort.

Mystic Creek Park

"Planning Board Strongly Suggests Mystic Creek Be Kept as a Park." — Many of us who count ourselves as "old timers" would have been very glad to read this heading and also hope that it will bear fruit success fully.

I was one of those who, many years ago, used to go every now and then to the Mystic Creek area.

It was one of the loveliest bits of woodland and water that one could possibly see.

For that reason alone it is really well worth while keeping as a park.

May I wish any group banding its efforts to that end every possible success.

650 Jobs Soon

Christmas season mail means about 650 temporary jobs for Victorians.

The average temporary post office employee gets five to seven days work, Postmaster Alan Davies said yesterday.

LISTING NAMES

National Employment Service officials are currently listing names of applicants. They'll be documented and screened Sunday, Dec. 2.

First of the temporary help will go to work around Dec. 5 or 6, with others added as required.

Strict preference governs those accepted, Mr. Davies said.

Employment Service officials handle the selection, but preference runs (veterans' preference included) to unemployed without families and then students.

Moon Rocket Passes Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The Saturn "super rocket" an early model of the vehicle that will propel the nation's astronauts to the moon—thundered 104 miles into space Friday on its third straight successful test flight.

When the rocket was purposely blown up at the end of its test flight, the water ballast carried in upper stages formed the highest ice cloud known to man. It appeared as a small white cloud in the sky.

too much help in the past, Mr. Davies said, because they did not finish classes early enough.

But this year, with the aid of university employment officials, some students will be employed.

"We like to have students for outside help because they are younger and can carry a fair load of mail," said Mr. Davies.

Two distinct operations are involved. The first is the handling of outgoing mail from Dec. 5 to the peak at Dec. 13 and the finish by Dec. 18.

Local mail begins to build up by the 13th and "a lot" of extra help is employed until around Boxing Day.

TO ROAD'S END

And the post office wants help that will stay to the end of the road.

"It's not much use to train people who decide that they have to go to a party or don't want to work on one day or another," said Mr. Davies.

VANCOUVER — Stacey Charles Peters, 37, a part-time missionary at Alert Bay, Friday was committed to trial on a charge of non-capital murder in the death of his five-month-old son.

The infant was pronounced dead Oct. 30 when brought to hospital by his mother.

A coroner's jury later found a skull fracture and brain hemorrhage caused his death. The blows had been inflicted the previous day.

Newton Talks

Dr. William Newton will discuss the world food problem at a meeting of the United Nations Association at 8 p.m. Monday in the Douglas Building Cafeteria.

A former director of the agricultural experimental station at Saanich, Dr. Newton went on a United Nations mission to Ceylon in 1953 to study food problems there.

He said it was possible the injuries were caused by a fall from an 18-inch-high stroller, but "personally I doubt it."

Victorian Fined For Car Death

Three Victorians were fined a total of $400 in up-Island courts Friday on traffic charges, one resulting from a fatal two-car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway 11 miles south of Duncan Oct. 7.

J. R. James was fined $100 in Duncan after pleading guilty to careless driving. Court was told his panel truck hit the car of Norman Cook of Victoria, resulting in the death of Mrs. Mabel Taylor, 65, a passenger in the Cook car. Decision was deferred on a licence suspension.

Harold R. Gent of Victoria pleaded guilty in Duncan to careless driving Nov. 12. Police said he fell asleep at the wheel, causing a $1,000 two-car collision on the highway. Gent was fined $100 and his licence was suspended for 30 days.

In Nanaimo, George Underwood of Saanich was fined $200 for impaired driving. He was prohibited from driving for six months.

Williston Tells Contractors

Peace to Make B.C. Industrial Centre

The Peace River power project will establish British Columbia as an industrial base, secure in its industrial future, said Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston last night in an address to the annual meeting of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C.

Mr. Williston said that if the detractors of the Peace River project had their way, there would be little attraction for industrial developers in B.C.

SIDE EFFECTS

"Besides the obvious benefits of more and cheaper power," said Mr. Williston, "this project has many beneficial side effects in the development of the province."

"Canadian Forest Products, assured of a low-cost supply of hydro-electric power, has already planned a $300,000 pulp mill in the Prince George area," said Mr. Williston.

ADDITIONAL MILLS

"Three additional mills will be built in the same area for the same reason," he said.

"There is an attitude of pessimism in B.C. towards projects of this size," he said. "There was no crying when the Fulton River project was planned to produce power at a 24-cent mill rate, but when the Peace River plan, with a four-mill rate, was announced, the hydro authority came under severe criticism."

STIMULATE EMPLOYMENT

"The long-range benefits will be to stimulate employment and labor in B.C.," he said. "I have this on figures from the effect of the Grand Coulee dam, which caused an upsurge of business that was felt in 37 states of the United States."

"The Peace project will also cause industrial decentralization of industry in B.C., which will promote industrial competition within the province," he said.

Five Mills Unpopular With U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United States Pacific Northwest doesn't want British Columbia surplus power at five mills, a Washington State government official said Thursday.

MOST UNCOMFORTABLE

Robert E. Rose said the U.S. region would probably pay that price if it had to, but would find doing so "most uncomfortable."

Rose, state director of commerce and economic development, made the comment during a question period at Vancouver Board of Trade's annual panel on economic prospects.

LARGER MARKET

He said if Washington, did buy B.C. power at five mills, it would have to have a market area larger than the present jurisdiction of the Bonneville Power Administration.

Rose said this might come about if Washington arranged a power intertie with California.

Toronto Show Wins Plaudits in London

LONDON (CPI) — Clap Hands, the Toronto revue transplanted Thursday night to the fringe of the west end, gets a round of applause from London critics.

"Deserves a warm welcome," comments David Nathan of The Daily Herald.

"Odd, offbeat and usually very funny," says The Times in a thoroughly enthusiastic review. "This satire... both makes us laugh and makes us think."

Michael Walsh of The Daily Express described the atmosphere of the first-night performance at the Lyric Theatre in suburban Hammersmith:

INVIGORATING

"Good-humored laughter sweeping through the auditorium—as invigorating as a mountain breeze."

"These Canadians, most of them here for the first time, certainly know how to laugh at themselves."

Clap Hands is a medley of sketches from Toronto productions of the last 10 years plus some topical material. It is directed by Toronto playwright John Gray and produced by his wife, actress Araby Lockhart, who also appears in the cast of six.

Library on Wheels

Just one item in the picture indicates that this is a library on wheels. See it? It's the rear window of a truck cab. Nanaimo's bookmobile visited Sooke school district 62 yesterday. Donna Clarke, 3, of 656 Atkins Road, and Bernard Morneau, 13, of 1860 Island Highway, sampled selections from the 4,500 books on the shelves. Sooke parent-teachers are backing a drive for a proposed referendum on permanent bookmobile service.

Starts Tonight

Theatre Guild Offers Waltz of Toreadors

A play which received critical acclaim — as well as an outstanding award — when first produced in New York in 1957, will be opened in Victoria this evening by the Theatre Guild.

The Waltz of the Toreadors is adapted from the French of Jean Anouilh by Lucienne Hill. At the Coronet Theatre on Broadway it ran for 132 performances in 1957. The leading players were Ralph Richardson (General St. Pe), Mildred Natwick (Mme. St. Pe) and Meriel Forbes (Mlle. de St. Euverte).

Referred to by Louis Kronenberger as "a very rewarding thing" and a play of "real distinction," it received the palm for the best foreign play of the year.

This came from the New York Drama Critics' Circle who, that same year, gave their nod to O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night as the best domestic play and to Frank Loesser's The Most Happy Fella as the best musical.

FARR DIRECTING

The Victoria Theatre Guild entrusts its guidance to director Bert Farr and its performance to players with reputations for past successes.

Among these are Anabel Cranston (Castle in the Air), Gerald Guest (Teahouse of the August Moon), Duet for Two Hands, Vanessa Lax (Anastasia), Sheila Latt (The Constant Wife, Separate Tables), Ken Bostock (Harvey, Dear Brutus), Don Ross (The Matchmaker, Love in Albania), John Drea (The Sisters McIntosh, And This Was Odd), Linden Louis (Picnic), Mimi Robertson, Miriam Taylor and Margaret Newberry.

ALL NEXT WEEK The Waltz of the Toreadors runs tonight and all next week at the Langham Court Theatre off Rockland Avenue with curtain time at 8:15 p.m.

Stilling Funeral Monday

Funeral services will be held Monday for accident victim Lester Albert Stilling, 43, of 3528 Henderson Road who was killed in a car crash on the Patricia Bay Highway near Sidney Thursday.

Born in Saskatoon, Sask. Mr. Stilling was a Canadian officer on loan with the King's Own Rifles during the Second World War. He was a member of St. Andrews Lodge No. 49 AF & AM, BCR, and the Britannia Branch No. 7 of the Royal Canadian Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Margaret Evelyn; a son, Brian Lester, and daughter, Lynda Elizabeth, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian W. Stilling, Vancouver, B.C.; brothers, Ernest and Harry in Toronto, Ont., Chester, Edmonton, Alta. and Bruce, Peace River; sisters, Helen Moore, Everett, Wash., Denise Stewart and Patricia Stewart, Vancouver, B.C.

Services will be held at Sands Mortuary Ltd. on Monday at 3 p.m. Canon George Riddle officiating.

Contractors in Doldrums

Half the contracting equipment in B.C. is standing idle and the province's contractors are forgetting what profits are, their association's leaders said in Victoria last night.

Officers Elected

New president of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C. is Barrie Charlesworth of Marwell Construction Co. Ltd. and B.C. Bridge and Dredging Co. Ltd., Vancouver.

Other 1962-63 officers:

S. C. Tower, North Surrey, first vice-president; R. E. Ainscough, Vancouver, second vice-president; W. B. Laurie, Vancouver, secretary-treasurer; directors, W. S. Amm, Hope; R. F. Binnie, Vancouver; A. B. Ciccozzi, White Rock; R. J. Meyers, North Vancouver; J. Wilson, Richmond.

L. R. van Kleeck, Vancouver, associate director; Gordon R. Hodson, Vancouver, general manager.

LONDON — A violin was sold at Sotheby Auction for $27,000—said to be the highest auction price ever paid for a violin. The instrument, bought by C. W. Jackson, a British dealer, was made by Joseph Guarnerius, the noted Italian craftsman, in 1744.

Officials of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C. last night said the organization will continue its fight against road construction by government crews and for regulations assuring that bidders on projects are qualified to handle them.

And W. B. Haughan, outgoing president of the association, said beginning of the Peace and Columbia River projects would be a "terrific boom to the heavy construction industry."

NOT ENOUGH

But even these projects would not put to work all the idle machines—the "overcapacity"—in B.C., he said.

Mr. Haughan and incoming president Barrie Charlesworth met reporters last night during the association's annual meeting in Victoria yesterday.

MORE WORK

Up to four years ago, Mr. Haughan said, the provincial government was supplying more work for each head of population than anywhere else in the world.

But now B.C. has the best highway system, considering the population, in the world and, for the province's contractors, the party's over.

Average Topped United Fund Misses By $9,000

Victoria's 1962 United Appeal will fall 2½ per cent —just $9,000—short of target, but the 7 per cent increase in donations tops the national average.

Campaign chairman Justin Harbord, ending a three-year term of service last night, said the final total would reach $351,000. Target was $360,000.

"On the whole, I'm fairly pleased, although somewhat disappointed on coming so near and still not hitting the target," he said.

"But we've increased our

Calculated Forecast

It was considered nationally by United appeal funds that a 4 per cent yearly increase was "very satisfactory," he said.

Exactly $337,210 was in the hands of accountants yesterday, with the remainder "to come," it's pledged and it will come," said executive secretary Jack Anguish.

The predicted final total was a "pretty carefully calculated forecast."

While the fund drive officially ended yesterday, a clean-

'Would Be Unfair'

"It was done last year . . . but such action might create the tendency in major donors to hold back in anticipation of a re-appeal," Mr. Harbord continued.

"It would be unfair to the committee next year."

He said he anticipates the effect of falling short of the target would be that directors will have to take funds from the appeal reserve to make up the balance.

But reserves, "which under good management of community funds should not fall community in this connection."

Three Targets Hit

He expressed "deep appreciation to all the volunteers who worked hardest, longer and more enthusiastically than ever before."

"I hope the community will give the same support to the incoming chairman (J. Alan Baker and John Wallace) as it has so graciously given to me," he concluded.

Three divisions passed their

Clean Walk Or Pay! Tap Smoke Clouds for Power?

By HARVEY HENKHEED

A scheme to alleviate Victoria's smoke problem, utilizing an idle factory and generate cheap hydro for the city is under consideration by a Victoria Chamber of Commerce committee of concern.

Indications are it's going to decide it's a great idea but it won't work.

Directors of the chamber yesterday instructed Court-

Parking Bids Soon Tight Squeeze For Garages

By IAN STREET

It looks as though Victoria's special parking committee will just squeeze under the wire in financing two downtown parking garages with the available funds of $1,115,000.

City Manager C. C. Wyatt said yesterday financing arrangements for the new parking facilities are "pretty tight."

He urged city council, therefore, to call tenders on the full debenture issue of $1,115,000 at the coupon interest rate of 5½ per cent which would sell at a premium.

UP TO CONDITIONS

This could bring in an additional $30,000 to $50,000, depending on market conditions at that time.

Parking committee chairman Ald. Michael Griffin said the recommendation was "the only and obvious course we can take."

Comptroller-treasurer James Bramley had stated a 5½ per cent bond would sell at a slight discount but would be better received by investment dealers and carry a lower effective interest rate.

UNDISCLOSED

Reduction in the coupon rate from 5½ per cent to 5 per cent would lower the overall cost by an undisclosed amount, council was told.

Support for the comptroller came from finance chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell who said the city would be "far better off" to sell at a discount.

PREMIUM NEEDED

"I'm not disagreeing with Mr. Bramley's observations," the city manager said. "But we have to reconcile the situation with our present needs. We do need the premium."

Ald. Griffin said he is confident the entire project can be financed within the allotted sum of $1,115,000. The final answer, however, won't be known for several days.

STARTING MONDAY

Investment dealers will be advised of the tender call starting Monday. Tenders are returnable at noon Nov. 30 and city council will meet that afternoon to accept the successful bid.

Council yesterday also:

• Approved spending of $3,000 for installation of an elevator in the four-storey View Street garage which is nearing completion and another $6,000 on ornamental trim. Both items were cut when the contract price exceeded estimates.

• Reaffirmed an expropriation bylaw for two properties on the first-choice site for the parking garage at Langley and Yates.

Ald. Griffin said this move was merely a "precautionary move" in case of a breakdown in purchase negotiations with the owners.

FOR FULL AID

The three-storey garage on lower Yates must be completed by May 31 to qualify for full winter works aid. This must be done to meet the current budget.

Because of difficulties in relocating tenants, however, it will probably be February before construction can begin. Officials said this will allow enough time for the job.

WITHIN BUDGET

Inclusion of the elevator and ornamental trim is regarded as an indication planners expect to complete the whole project within the budget.

The View Street garage will officially open Dec. 14. Expropriation negotiations here also are nearing completion.

Doubt Cast Already

chief engineer at a Victoria lumber mill, last night said the idea is fine—except it wouldn't produce enough power to make it worth the bother.

He estimated Victoria probably uses about 75,000 kilowatts and the boilers at the roofing plant might generate 1,500.

Several years ago in Vancouver there were proposals to burn "hog fuel" to generate power, but the hydro company wound up using natural gas. Some lumber mills, including B.C. Forest Products in Victoria, burn "hog fuel" to generate electricity for their own use.

At the chamber meeting, Mr. Haddock stressed he was not proposing the scheme, having no idea whether it was technically feasible, but merely saying it should be investigated.

Mailboxes in the Suburbs Aren't the Drive-In Type

Notice to lazy motorists:
Suburban street-letter boxes are not intended to be curb (automobile) mail boxes.

That's why, in places where there are no sidewalks, street-letter boxes turn their backs to the road.

Otherwise, pedestrians would have to step onto, or near, the highway to post a letter.

Where there are sidewalks between the boxes and the street, the boxes face outward.

Postmaster Alan Davies says many motorists have damaged their cars trying to get too close to street letter-boxes.

Also damaged: The boxes.

"But the cars get hurt more," Mr. Davies adds. "The boxes are made of pretty tough stuff."

Huge Costs Ahead Murphy, Casey Debate Amalgamation

It costs Saanich residents $200,000 when the municipality builds one mile of road, Reeve Stanley Murphy said yesterday, "and we have miles and miles of roads to be built."

He was speaking in favor of amalgamation at a luncheon meeting of Victoria Lions Club. The opposite view was given by Coun. Joseph Casey.

AT THE LATEST

Reeve Murphy said Saanich's population is increasing by 2,000 persons each year and will pass Victoria's population by 1967 at the latest.

He stressed the increasing population would throw more strain on the municipality's school and roads systems and involve heavy expenditures on both to meet demands.

ON MIND

Apparently referring to the Town and Country shopping centre in Saanich and the May-lake shopping centre under construction on the city boundary — both on Douglas Street — Reeve Murphy said having two such centres three-quarters of a mile apart was a "ridiculous disregard of public interest."

He said amalgamation would bring about more sane zoning and land use.

IN ATTEMPT

Coun. Casey told the club he had proposed the amalgamation referendum Dec. 6 when defeated in council in an attempt to have sketch plans prepared for a municipal hall.

He said that, when the amalgamation vote was recorded as opposed to union four years ago, the council decided to put aside $30,000 each year to form a reserve fund to provide a new municipal hall.

Parallel Parking Blanshard Spreads Out

Motorists using downtown Blanshard Street in the past day or two have been surprised to find it is actually as wide as Douglas Street.

And the reason for this belated recognition?

City public works crews this morning are completing the changeover from angle parking on both sides of the street to normal curbside parking in the seven blocks between Pandora and Hurdett.

The result is a loss of 70 parking spaces — there are now 92 meters for parallel parking on this stretch of Blanshard — but a marked gain in traffic flow with two full lanes in each direction.

The change has been planned for a long time (in 1954 an American traffic consultant advised removal of angle parking from all city streets) but it was stalled by the lack of alternate parking accommodation.

This will change Dec. 14 when the 400-car parking garage on View Street goes into operation.

Some criticism has been levelled at the timing of the change, with nearly a month to go before the new facility opens. But chairman of the city's traffic committee, Ald. Michael Griffin, yesterday defended the action.

"These things can't be done overnight," he said. "We want to give the public time to get used to the new system before the parking facility opens, bringing a heavy traffic flow onto Blanshard."

Ald. Griffin's committee is also eyeing angle parking spaces on Yates between Cook and Blanshard. Here as on Blanshard itself there is expected to be an increase in traffic generated by the new parking garage.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a wife who is needlessly terrified of burglars? I've spent a fortune on locks and specially designed devices for every window and door in the house.

She insists on leaving lights on all night, and even the radio or TV so "he" will think we are still up. There have been no robberies in our neighborhood since we've lived here—well over 15 years. Our street is well lit and frequently travelled. I've tried to explain that no one can possibly get into our home. But she still worries.

Last week she started something new. Every night she sprinkles cornflakes in the halls so we can hear the footsteps of an intruder.

How can I get through to this woman that she is worrying herself sick over nothing? —ENOUGH ALREADY.

Dear Enough Already: Fear is emotional and you can't make a person stop being afraid by telling him there's nothing to be afraid of. Looks, special devices or a carload of breakfast cereal won't make her feel secure—so save your money, Dad.

Your wife's fears are probably rooted in childhood anxieties which were never resolved. She needs professional help. This is no do-it-yourself project.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister who is two years older has always considered herself better-looking, more popular and more appealing to men. I must admit all this is true.

Six years ago we both were married — she to a man the family did not approve of, and I to a wonderful person who was the answer to all my prayers. I considered my marriage ideal.

We have three youngsters. Two months ago my sister and her husband moved out of town and immediately after, their marriage broke up. My husband then told me that he had married me out of pity and that he had always been secretly in love with my sister. I could not believe it.

He wants a divorce and is trying to sell our home. I do not want a divorce but it's hell to live with a man who doesn't want me.

I don't know if he has been seeing my sister or not—he won't say. It may be that his feeling for her is one-sided. Please help me. I'm 27 and ready to jump into the lake. —SHATTERED.

Dear Shattered: Judging from what you've told me I suspect your sister figures in the picture somewhere, which makes it more painful and, of course, uglier.

You don't have to give your husband a divorce just because he wants one. Tell him nothing doing. And if he leaves, make sure he knows about the support laws. In the meantime there's always the chance that he may return to his senses. Chin up, Honey.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were especially interested in the letter signed "Old Hand." I agreed with you that if you invite people two or three times and they make no effort to reciprocate, you shouldn't invite them back.

Does this go for relatives, too? My brother and his wife have been married two years. We've had them to our home for dinner at least a dozen times. They have yet to invite us to their place for a cup of coffee. We know for a fact they do entertain. About four months ago we stopped inviting them. Now when we meet at family gatherings they give us the cold shoulder.

We are planning a big get-together for all the family in December. Shall we include them although they are at least a dozen invitations behind? —D.D.

Dear D.D.: Do not exclude them from a family get-together even if they get 100 invitations behind. As relatives they should be invited to family functions, but I see no reason to keep entertaining them socially if they don't treat you in the same manner.

Tender, moist Poppy Seed Knots are made from a yeast leavened potato dough. Leftover mashed potatoes or instant potatoes can be used when making this recipe. A delicate golden crust sprinkled with poppy seeds, gives these rolls a most attractive appearance.

Sprinkle Poppy Seeds On Rich, Crusty Knots

The tiny black poppy seeds we use in cooking and baking do not come from the same variety of poppy plant that yields opium. The best seeds, which are so minute it takes more than 900,000 to make a pound, are blue in color and cultivated by the Dutch. There is also a white variety which is often dyed to look like the quality blue ones, that comes from Poland, Turkey, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

POPPY SEED KNOTS

(Yield—3 dozen rolls)

One and a half cups milk, 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes fast rising active dry yeast, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup mashed potatoes (may be made with instant potato prepared as directed on package label), 6 cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 1 tablespoon water, poppy seeds.

Scald milk; stir in the 1/2 cup granulated sugar, salt and butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure the 1/2 cup lukewarm water into a warm large bowl; stir in the 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Beat 1 egg and 1 egg yolk together; stir into yeast mixture, then stir in lukewarm milk mixture, mashed potatoes and 3 cups of the flour. Beat until smooth and elastic. Work in sufficient additional flour to make a soft dough — about 3 cups more. Knead lightly in the bowl. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk — about 1 1/2 hours. Punch down dough. Turn out onto a lightly-floured board or canvas and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 3 equal portions. Shape each portion into a 12-inch roll and cut into twelve 1-inch pieces. Roll each piece under palms of hands into an 8-inch rope and tie into a loose knot. Arrange the knots, almost touching, on greased cookie sheets. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 45 minutes. Beat remaining egg white and the 1 tablespoon water together with a fork; brush on bun tops. Sprinkle with poppy seeds. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Eve Honeymoon at Harrison

Holy Trinity Church at Sooke was the setting last evening for the wedding of Rosslyn-Jean Howard and Mr. Gordon Edward Eve.

Rev. D. A. Hatfield performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Michelsen, Otter Point Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stoith, Milne's Landing.

Autumn toned chrysanthemums were on the altar and wedding music was played by Mrs. M. Woodhams.

The bride who was given in marriage by her stepfather was lovely in a short gown of white sparkle chiffon over satin and short white lace jacket. Her bouffant veil was caught to a coronet of seed pearls and her only jewelry was pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. Johanna Hill roses were in her colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Robert Cameron, matron of honor, wore a dress of deep blue crystal charm taffeta with bell skirt and carried gold chrysanthemums. Bridesmaid, Miss Marie Bush wore a similar gown in pale green and carried bronze chrysanthemums. Their gold lockets were a gift from the bride.

Mr. Norman Essery was best man and the groom's brothers, Mr. Leslie Eve and Mr. Wayne Stoith acted as ushers.

The reception was held in Sooke Community Hall where music was supplied by Norman Watts Trio.

For a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs and Vancouver the bride travelled in a teal blue poodle cloth suit styled with box jacket, black accessories and Johanna Hill rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Eve will make their home at 1253 Queens.

Scientist Says

Calorie Charts On High Side

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Science has no really accurate idea of how many calories any person should consume daily in order to be properly nourished despite the widely used scientific charts of daily calorie requirements, said Dr. Henry Bersook who is a biochemist and thinks of nutrition chemically.

Medical science needs few things more than it needs greater accuracy in this regard because, in his opinion, the charts are on the high side, especially in prescribing daily calories for middle-aged and elderly people. The charts allow them 2,500 if they're physically inactive and Bersook believed the accurate requirement would be below 2,000.

He was indulging in some "plain talk about nutrition," (a subject usually engulfed in hogwash as a chemist looks at it,) for the benefit of students and faculty of the California Institute of Technology where he is professor of biochemistry.

NOT A RAP

One plain chemical fact is that chemically the body cares not a rap where essential nutritional substances come from; chemically it makes no difference whether calcium comes from milk and cheese "or from the chalk cliffs of Dover," he said.

"If I were in charge of an orphan asylum, I wouldn't serve the children any milk. I would provide the essential nutrients of milk—the protein, calcium and vitamins — far more cheaply from other sources such as beans, powdered chalk and vitamin concentrates. With the money saved I would give the kids some luxuries that they would get some fun out of."

Switching his plain talk to protein, he asked and answered the question of how much protein does a person need daily. "If all our protein were meat, the most expensive source, it would be a surprisingly small amount—about two ounces," he said. "If only a fifth of the protein in our diet was meat and the rest was a mixture of bread or beans, we would do very well."

VITAMIN PILLS

As for vegetables and fruits, he said they were urged upon people mainly because of their vitamins. "But as far as vitamins are concerned, a good multivitamin pill makes the eating of vegetables and fresh fruit unnecessary, and it is a lot cheaper and easier."

Bersook was not advocating the substitution of a few daily nutritional pills for eating. In this view that is not practical.

"Let's say we need 2,000 calories, which is 20 per cent below the calorie standard," he said. "Taking only digestible material, and considering only its dry weight, for 2,000 calories we need about 400 grams. That is about nine-tenths of a pound. It is impossible to get nine-tenths of a pound into a couple of pills."

Most of the nutritional diseases affect people who eat very few kinds of food, and "nutritional safety is in variety," he said.

Everybody's talking about Britain's new one, Consul Cortina. It has a 4-speed shift with synchromesh on all 4 gears, a zippy 53-horsepower engine that gives up to 40 miles to the gallon, super-comfortable bucket seats, more trunk space than any other car in its class, trim new styling along big car lines, room for five adults, wide opening doors, an easy-to-read instrument panel, good all-round visibility, full width parcel shelf, glove compartment and high-output heater. How do you like it, dear?

You mean I can talk now?

First Wedding In New Church

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Goldwyn Borden became the first couple to be wed in Gosworth Road Community Church last Saturday. The groom's niece, Valerie Karen Eileen Cronk, is the granddaughter of W. C. Cronk, who began the Gosworth Road Sunday school 50 years ago. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Cronk, 4316 Blenkinsop Road, were married by Rev. Percy E. Willis, the officiating clergyman, 25 years ago.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Borden, 262 Durrance Road. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin, made by herself, that featured a scalloped neckline, lilly point sleeves and a full, hooped skirt. Three-tiered shoulder-length veil of illusion net misted from a coronet of pearls. For "something old" she had her maternal grandmother's diamond ring. Tallman roses were in the cascade bouquet.

Matron of honor Mrs. G. McGhee, sister of the bride, chose a gold peau de soie gown, toning flowered whimsies and accessories and bouquet of red-bronze chrysanthemums. Matching gowns in bronze peau de soie were worn by bridesmaids, the Misses Uile Prees and Rhodena Cronk, another sister of the bride. Flowered whimsies were in tone and "bouquets" lemon yellow chrysanthemums. The groom's niece, Valerie Karen Eileen Cronk, is the granddaughter of W. C. ## Advices Against Forcing Democracy on Middle East

"We, of the Western World, must not force our form of democracy on these countries," said Brig. Cyril Quilliam in speaking of the nations of the Middle East.

Brig. Quilliam gave an address entitled "Middle East Personalities," yesterday afternoon to the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Kirk Hall.

In his informative survey of countries of the Middle East, the speaker tried to show the basic problems that have confronted leaders of these countries.

LACK OF EDUCATION
"What goes wrong with democracies there?"

He showed the strong disinterest in democracy on the part of the people is caused by lack of education and such a low standard of living that thoughts of government are above the head of the man on the street.

"There is a tendency to let the people in power do all the ruling," Brig. Quilliam stated. "Subjects neither understand, nor particularly want democracy, as we see it."

They are very fond of the chieftain system in those parts and we shouldn't insist that there be elections for every issue. Elections for everything, "the flower of democracy," the Brigadier declared, is not akin to Middle Eastern way of thought.

VIGNETTES

By giving colorful vignettes of the lives of kings of Persia, Iraq, Jordan, Ethiopia and King Farouk of Egypt, the speaker showed the difficulties encountered by progressive rulers with backward countries.

The "seven kings and the Joker" in most cases have done their best, but, Brig. Quilliam feels it is now up to the young men, who in many cases are university educated, to bring a working democracy to their people.

Brig. Quilliam was introduced by club president, Mrs. F. M. Corbett and thanked by Mrs. H. S. Grove.

TWO SCHOLARSHIPS

Mrs. Alfred B. Young, reported on two scholarships awarded by the club to Phillip Adamson and Susan Lee of Victoria High School. Both students are now attending the University of British Columbia and were unable to attend the meeting, but their mothers, Mrs. R. M. Adamson and Mrs. F. Lee were guests.

Present at tea, which followed, were Mrs. Fred Corbett, Brig. Quilliam, Mrs. A. L.

Speaker Says

Sharing of Resources Is Richly Rewarding

The "Y" World Service is a sharing of resources, Dr. Bina Nelson, told her audience at the YWCA yesterday afternoon following a curry luncheon in her honor.

Dr. Nelson, a graduate of Calcutta University and New York University is at present physical education teacher at the "Y" in Vancouver.

Although not discounting the value of the dollar, "some of our work would stand still without it," Dr. Nelson stressed that the sharing of ideas, experiences, human and spiritual values were abundant in riches.

No group can withdraw into itself today, she must expand their horizons, she said. A group no longer belongs to Victoria, Vancouver or New Delhi—it is on a world level now. And as the world gets smaller it is imperative that people learn to share and to understand one another, she stated.

"There is no need to travel today to accomplish this sharing of cultural ideas—people from foreign lands are in our midst waiting to learn and to give," the speaker pointed out. The dress and the language may be different but children the world over have much the same hopes and ambitions.

The sharing, to be meaningful she said must be taught to children. She told about a class of 100 children between the ages of seven and 12 years that she taught in Cincinnati. Dr. Nelson separated the children into groups by countries they had heard about. There was a Paris group, India, Canada, Australia, London and so on.

Each group then was launched on a program. Mothers were called in to find out the kind of food the people ate. Then fathers were contacted to make models of the different lands.

Finally, older brothers and sisters, uncles and aunts, the whole family were in the picture making costumes and models of handicrafts.

At the conclusion, each group had learned to share ideas with people of another land and so to become familiar with their customs. Understanding was the result.

"Today, many of you have learned how Indians like to eat," Dr. Nelson laughingly remarked. The luncheon included curried chicken and rice, curried tuna and rice, curried eggs, shredded coconut and hot mango chutney.

Invited guests include Mr. and Mrs. John Gough, Mr. A. C. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Forster, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Huddleston, Mrs. W. Kerr, Miss M. MacKay, Mr. and Mrs. V. Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibbard, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dee, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ramsay, Col. and Mrs. R. M. Lendrum, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Clarke, Capt. and Mrs. David Gardner and Mrs. V. Shelton.

The out-of-town Y-Teen members will be guests of the Victoria District Y-Teen Choir and ushers in the YWCA club room.

Approximately 300 girls will take part in the candle lighting ceremony when new members will become formal members of the YWCA. During the service they will declare their purpose of building a fellowship of women and girls, wherein they will devote themselves to the task of realizing in their common life the ideals of personal and social living inspired by their Christian faith.

The text of the address given by the Very Rev. Dean Brian Whitlow will be "Youth Undaunted."

Leaders in the service will be members from Mount Douglas, Mount View, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Victoria High Schools. Mr. R. Proudman will be organist.

Following the ceremony, the YM/YWCA Board of Directors will host a tea for the Y-Teen leaders in the YWCA lounge. Other special guests will include school executives, Y-Teen advisors and YM/YWCA board members.

Proceeds Aid Israel

The sum of $1,500 was realized at Thursday afternoon's Hadassah bazaar and tea. Proceeds will be used to aid the needy in Israel.

Donation To Eskimos

At the recent meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, IOOE, $20 was donated to the Second World War Memorial and also the Eskimo fund.

Mrs. L. M. Roskelley, educational secretary, reported IOOE calendars had been sent to two adopted schools. An interesting reading was given by Mrs. J. E. Neilans, empire and world affairs, on "Apprentice to a Nation."

Mrs. G. B. Elliott and Mrs. H. A. Porter, were two new members presented. Final arrangements were made for the Chapter's Christmas tea.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders—

MONTREAL, November 15th—Taken a good look lately? At your property, I mean. Whether you own your home, a block of flats, an apartment building—or all three—it will certainly pay you to keep your property in good repair at all times. At this time of the year, good workmen are readily available—so now's the time to get your repair work of improvements underway. And, you know, there's no need for lack of ready cash to hold up the work you want to put in hand. The BANK OF MONTREAL about a low-cost Home Improvement Loan. They'll be glad to show you what an H.I.L. can do for you.

SOMETHING GOOD FOR EVERY MEAL of the day... and, so often, these good "somethings" begin with a package of TEA-BISK. You see, Monarch Tea-Bisk is an all-purpose mix that can be used for any number of tasty treats. One of my family's favourites... piping-hot, home-made tea biscuits... and, with Tea-Bisk I can make them so easily simply by adding milk or water. Do buy Tea-Bisk today, and try some of the wonderful recipes on the package. And, notice when you buy it, that Tea-Bisk now comes in handy, pre-measured, 1-cup envelopes!

THIS FALL I'M SHOPPING FOR A NEW CARPET. Before I buy, however, I'll insist on seeing a DU PONT CARPET NYLON GOLD LABEL. They're awarded only to nylon carpets which meet Du Pont's strict standards of excellence in quality and performance. I've learned that nothing tops nylon for tough wear, spot resistance, easy cleaning and lasting luxury.

And, with a Du Pont Carpet Nylon Gold Label identifying my best buy, I'll shop in complete confidence. Look for a Du Pont Gold Label before you purchase. For a FREE 16-page booklet entitled, "What You Should Know About Carpets"—write to me—1411 Crescent St., Montreal, P.Q.

DECEMBER WEATHER ISN'T KIND to us, is it? One day it's crisp and cold—the next day may be damp and drizzly. Extreme temperature changes cause most of our winter colds—colds that make us feel uncomfortable and out-of-sorts with nagging aches and pains. That's why I consider wonderful pain-relieving BEN-GAY a winter-time "must." And now there's the NEW BEN-GAY—greaseless and stainless, and every bit as effective as your old long-time favourite. Simply massage it gently into the spot where the pain is most severe... it penetrates deep and fast to bring welcome relief from chest cold congestion, headaches, neuralgia and muscular strain! Keep Ben-Gay handy any season—New greaseless Ben-Gay with the vanishing cream base.

LET ME TELL YOU about my new margarine discovery... FLEISCHMANN'S Margarine. There's a big difference between this good-tasting margarine and others you may have tried. Fleischmann's is made only from one hundred percent corn oil, with almost a full cup of liquid corn oil in every pound of margarine. This means that Fleischmann's is high in polyunsaturates... low in saturates. In fact, of all leading margarine brands, it has the highest ratio of polyunsaturates to saturates. That makes it ideal for modern diets... ask your doctor about its benefits. One of its biggest benefits, you won't have to ask about... just taste! I know you'll like the luxurious flavor of Fleischmann's Margarine!

MY SISTER-IN-LAW HAS REALLY SOLD ME on the many advantages of CALGON, the wonder water conditioner. For instance, Calgon prevents Hangover Dirt... the film of soil, minerals, soap or detergent that sticks to your clothes. It's like the ring you get in the bathtub. Hangover Dirt makes your clothes stiff and scratchy—colors drab and dingy. But Calgon, the Water Doctor, CURES Hangover Dirt—prevents and removes it naturally without bleach. Calgon conditions water so you need less soap—get clothes softer, more absorbent and really clean. For brighter, cleaner clothes—launder with Calgon.

AT THE TOP OF MY LIST of petty annoyances, I'd have to put clogged-up, sluggish drains... and they are so unnecessary! Yes, by pouring in just 2 tablespoons of GILLETTE'S DRAIN CLEANER you can rid your kitchen and bathroom of the sewer germs that lurk in every slow-moving drain. It takes only minutes, yet this simple chore will save you costly plumber's bills and will guarantee you drains that are fast-running, clean and sanitary. Remember that just 2 tablespoons of Gillette's Drain-Cleaner in every drain, once a week, is your assurance of immaculate cleanliness!

HERE'S SOMETHING FOR YOUR MONEY!... I mean, really something! Next time you buy LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT, you can get this SPECIAL OFFER... with any four Libby labels, plus just $4.00, you can get an 8-piece, break-resistant MELMAC melamine dinner-set and stainless steel cutlery with hand-polished wooden handles... retail value $10.20! The place setting includes:

• dinner plate • bread and butter plate • cup and saucer • fork, knife, spoon • soup bowl

Simply send any four Libby labels and $4.00 (Money Order or Postal Note only) to Box 3783, Terminal "A", Toronto, to get this delightful 8-piece table setting... remember, a $10.20 retail value for $4.00... truly a great bargain!

Driver's Contempt Hard to Beat Says Magistrate

An 18-year-old youth, arrested when he failed to appear in court Thursday, was fined a total of $160 on four charges in city magistrate's court yesterday.

"For sheer audacity and contempt of the law this would be hard to beat," Magistrate William Ostler told Arthur Loring of 788 Hillside.

FOUR CHARGES

Loring had admitted two charges of driving without a licence and two charges of being a minor driving without insurance.

Prosecutor Angus Smith told Mr. Ostler Loring was first stopped by police at 7:35 p.m. Oct. 28 and found to have no licence or insurance.

STILL WITHOUT

He was stopped by other police at 12:45 a.m. the following day, still driving without licence or insurance.

Loring was fined $35 for driving without a licence and $25 for not holding insurance Oct. 28. He was fined $50 on each of the offences committed Oct. 28.

Frederick Evitt, 381 Grange, was sentenced to 30 days in jail after admitting a charge of impaired driving. His

No-Duty Shops In City?

Tourists may soon be able to do their "duty free" shopping in downtown Victoria specialty stores.

Retail merchants affiliated with the Victoria Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee yesterday to study the proposal.

They also discussed printing a pamphlet for distribution to tourists outlining how the "duty free" procedure works, secretary Lou Worrell said.

Specialty stores could show samples of imported goods, then have them shipped directly to the tourist from the country of origin. Stores would receive a commission from the manufacturers, Mr. Worrell added.

The merchants will meet with the Chamber tourist industry group to discuss the proposals.

Offer to Aid Strikers Sincere—Publisher

VANCOUVER (CP) — Publisher Howard Mitchell said Friday there is neither absurdity or bluff involved in his offer to help striking workers set up their own printing business.

He urged a second look by executives of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America at a suggestion he made Thursday. Their original discussion of the idea led to a statement later saying it was obviously absurd and not intended to be taken seriously.

TEN-WEEK STRIKE

Union members at the publisher's Mitchell Press Limited struck 10 weeks ago.

Mr. Mitchell offered to help the union get started in business by leasing it machinery and undertaking to buy enough printing to more than cover the cost of rent, light and power.

"I believe it is entirely practical and would give the chance to all down with you and a committee of the men to prove it to be so," Mr. Mitchell said in a letter to union president Earl Kinney.

FALL BLUFF

"If you feel, as you say, that this proposal is merely propaganda and never intended for acceptance, your simplest course is to call what you imply is merely bluff and let us both have an opportunity to prove

Extortion Plot Bared

VANCOUVER (CP) — An elderly widow was ordered to pay $15,000 on pain of death for her foster daughter, police said Friday.

They said the extortion plot was broken up and charges are pending against four persons who were arrested overnight.

NEVER IN DANGER

The foster daughter was never in danger, police said.

Detectives said Mrs. Mary McDonald received a call at 1 p.m. Thursday. Threats were made and in the background a girl could be heard screaming: "Pay the money, mother, or they'll kill me."

BY MAIL BOX

Mrs. McDonald called police who were on hand when she received a second call instructing her to put $15,000 in a shoe box and leave it beside a certain mail box.

A third call was received but police instructed another daughter to say that Mrs. McDonald was not at home.

Police staked out the mail box and a dummy box was prepared to represent the money.

Mrs. McDonald agreed to pay the money during a fourth call and at 5 p.m. a woman got out of a car, went to the mail box, dropped a letter in the slot and scooped up the package.

She returned to the car and she and a man drove away. Both were arrested shortly afterward. Another man and a woman were arrested later.

Police said one of the suspects, an unemployed radio announcer, dreamed up the plot.

The foster daughter was never in danger and was picked up at 11:15 p.m. and taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Garden Notes

Housecleaning Time

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In the garden, the best time to get your spring housecleaning done is in the late fall—and if this sounds Irish, you'll just have to blame it on my maternal ancestors from County Down.

The beds, filled with perennial flowers, in particular, benefit considerably from a good tidy-up, but it seems to me a lot of gardeners go too far when they whittle the spent topgrowth right down to soil level in their passion for neatness.

I prefer to remove all the old stakes, then cut down the withered stems to a uniform height about a foot from the ground, leaving the final trimming until after growth starts in the spring.

You see, quite a few of our best perennial plants produce their new growths just at the base of last year's flowering stems rather than directly from the roots and, when the topgrowth is cut back too drastically, these valuable buds are lost. Moreover, these 12-inch stubs left sticking up provide some measure of protection for these basal buds from frost and wind and serve to catch and hold any snow which may come along.

There are a few plants in the perennial beds, however, which shouldn't be cut down at all. The bearded iris, for instance, should be left strictly alone at this season of the year. Red Hot Pokers also are evergreen in character and need their leaves throughout the winter. These plants are often killed through water gathering in the crown and freezing, thereby crushing the tissues, which can be prevented by gathering the foliage together and tying it in a bundle with a bit of string to keep the rain out and the tender core dry.

There is nothing prettier in the spring than a colony of naturalized or semi-naturalized bulbs growing in the grass at the edge of the lawn or clustered around the foot of a tree or a flowering shrub. Quite often, though, such bulb plantations tend to decline from year to year, producing thinner foliage and a gradually decreasing display of flowers.

This decline may be due to several reasons. The variety may not be suitable for this purpose, for instance, as some kinds of bulbs need lifting and replanting every year and do not respond kindly to the naturalizing treatment. More often, the trouble is due to simple malnutrition—we just don't get around to feeding the naturalized bulbs.

In nature, wild bulbs growing in woodland glades would secure their nourishment from the fallen tree leaves on the forest floor. We can substitute for and improve upon nature's treatment by dressing the bulb site with very old rotted manure, sifted ripe compost or leafmould with a little bone meal added. Best of all, I think, is to water the bulb site with a liquid fish fertilizer solution, then put down a surface mulch about an inch thick of either sifted and rotted manure or peat moss.

While this isn't the proper time of the year to move naturalized bulbs, it is quite possible to shift clumps which may be growing in an unsuitable position. Dig them up just as you would a delphinium root, taking an enormous chunk of soil along with them, and replant immediately in their new site. If this is done carefully and with a minimum of root disturbance, the bulbs should bloom quite normally next spring.

JOHN CROSBY Finds Big Change

French Reconsider Drinking

PARIS—Changes in French life and French thinking have been sweeping, vast, galvanic, and oddly stimulating in a thousand different ways in the last five years. Nowhere is this drastic and symbolic and really significant change in thinking more evident than in the change in French drinking habits and the whole concept of drink.

Five years ago, the French had (as they still have) the worst rate of alcoholism of any nation in the world. Still, many, many French doctors and most Frenchmen felt that there was no such disease as alcoholism. Five years ago, Alcoholics Anonymous was making great strides in every country in the world except France. France had AA chapters full of Americans, British, Australians, Swedes, and Irish, but without a single French member.

But that's five years ago. Today Alcoholics Anonymous in France is loaded with Frenchmen, hundreds of them, and their number is growing every day. Mostly this is due to a remarkable book, originally a series of articles in France Soir, called "The Enemy in the Mouth" by Joseph Kessel, which put the message of AA for the first time in French terms and brought the French flocking in.

Today AA in France is not only flourishing with Frenchmen, but it's exceedingly French—the French bringing to sobriety their own dash, and passion, and gaiety and humor.

Today France's economy, like ours, is geared to the automobile and heavy industry and consumer goods are making vast strides. The vines are important still, but not all that important. The French government is seriously concerned about the sapping effects of the high rate of alcoholism on French national energies. Store fronts rented by the National Committee for Defence Against Alcohol sprout with warnings: "Sobriety and health are inseparable" or "One can ruin his health by alcohol without ever being drunk." Frenchmen had always felt that sane drinking was good for them.

However, even deeper than these efforts by the French government and by groups like AA to combat alcoholism, there is a subtle and profound change in French life, a speeding up of activities and this has changed the Frenchman from a leisurely wine-sipping aesthete to a more dynamic individual who drinks Scotch or beer.

In the cafes, wine, which provided 40 per cent of the income, has plummeted to less than 20 per cent in five years. I spoke the other day to Jean Cruse, who lives in the ancestral chateau near Bordeaux and whose family has been producing Bordeaux wine for five generations.

"My grandfather," he told me, "never had a bottle of Scotch in the cellar because no one drank Scotch or even knew what it was. Today everyone drinks Scotch. If I were an American whisky-maker, I'd start thinking about introducing American whiskies—bourbon and rye here. The French are ready for them and the only reason they don't drink them are because they don't know about them."

SHEILAH GRAHAM in Hollywood

Lucy Off to New York

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Lucille Ball, new president of Desilu, was hoping that Ann Sothern would rent her very expensive apartment in New York but Ann prefers the comfort of a hotel.

Lucille and her husband and Vivian Vance and her husband will all spend Thanksgiving with Ann and her pretty daughter, Pat, in New York. Now if only Desi Arnaz will decide it is foolish to gamble, I believe he can live happily ever after with the lady he is about to espouse.

From the reception of David Merrick's Oliver on the west coast, things should be improving on the east coast very shortly. Danny Kaye was wanted to play the Fagin role in the movie. So does Sir Alec Guinness.

Bette Davis is worried because there was a big burglary just two doors from her new home in Bel Air.

I hear that while Adele Rogers St. John is in New York on business with her best-seller book, Final Verdict, about her famed lawyer father, she is talking to Jackie Gleason about writing his life story.

Film studios are bidding for Scott Michel's best seller, Journey into Limbo.

Jane Fonda must be wondering whether her outspoken remarks against Laurence Harvey when they were making A Walk on the Wild Side will hurt her chances of playing Mildred in Of Human Bondage which stars Harvey. It would be a terrific role for Jane. Question is, will Larry forgive her enough to accept her as his leading lady.

Jimmy Hitz of the brothers, has been bidding for the affections of Selene Walters—well, it looked like that at the Steak Casino in Greenwich.

If Barry Sullivan is interested in knowing what his ex-wife Cilla Hall is doing these colder days, she is a home economist with the Chock Full of Nuts Company in New York.

Jennifer Jones has been touring Europe for quite some time with a woman press agent. Husband David Selznick has preferred to do his travelling from the east to the west coast. Jennifer must be proud of her son, young Robert Walker. His acting career is in full swing.

Donald O'Connor plays three roles in Paris Run-around, which he makes in the French capital in the spring. With three leading ladies—and he hopes one of them will be Brigitte Bardot. Donald, one of the rich actors of Hollywood—never squandered his money—is resisting all TV series until a good one comes along. But how do you know?

By Ina D. D. Uthoff

Bates' Work to Have Impact Here

Maxwell Bates establishes painting as a thing in itself; the subject is implied rather than stated.

For too long we have suffered from an overdose of uncontrolled painting getting by under the cloak of abstract "expressionism."

Not all of it has been bad, not by any means, but so often virtuosity has been its only virtue. Now we have a painter in our midst who is the most advanced expressionist in Western Canada and having an artist of the status of Maxwell Bates settled in Victoria is going to mean a great deal to the outlook on art in this city.

Born in Calgary in 1906, the son of a well-known architect, his early interests were in the direction of architecture and in later years he became a member of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, practising there with his father for some years. He is also a Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters.

In 1913 he went to England to study painting and later painted with Max Beckmann and Abraham Rattner of Brooklyn.

His list of distinctions is an extensive one—Associate of the Royal Academy, member of the Canadian Group of Painters and the Society of Painters in Water Color, the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, the Canadian Society of Graphic Art, and many others.

He is represented in many leading gallery collections—the National Gallery of Canada, the Art Galleries of Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina and Auckland, New Zealand. For those who remember the heartbreak created by the controversial Winnipeg Show in 1955, in which numbers of Canada's leading painters had their work rejected, the name of Maxwell Bates will be familiar.

He was one of two judges who met to select the paintings to be shown. The other was Jean Ostiguy, of Ottawa.

What was proposed was to be a representation of the best in Canadian art at that time, to be chosen on the basis of quality only, irrespective of art idioms or regional influences.

What emerged was an exhibition of superlative quality with leanings toward various types and levels of abstraction. In Mr. Bates' own work, people are his chief concern—the family group, washerwomen, railway workers, on which his comments are pungent, and a certain symbolism appears in spite of them being used only as formal elements.

The treatment of texture plays an important part. This is apparent in the small collection of his more recent work which is being shown in the Ker Gallery. It is employed for its own sake, for its own visual interest but at the same time it is used to build up each composition.

This series of paintings in mixed technique has a depth and richness of color obtained by unconventional means but is completely satisfying. Medieval King and Queen and Birds dominate the group.

There are two fine color lithographs of which I find Character unforgettable. In the oils, Washerwomen, Boulevard St. Michel, Landscape With Figures, Evening Star and Country of the Night Moth are paintings of rare distinction.

This exhibition will be in place at the Art Gallery until Dec. 2.

Sewers Exception

Utilities Severed By Berlin Wall

By JOHN FIERN

BERLIN (AP)—The two Berlins, East and West, are hewn from one city but they are virtually separate countries as far as utilities are concerned.

Sewerage is an exception. Ninety per cent of West Berlin's sewage flows towards East Berlin despite the Wall dividing the city.

West Berlin has 2,200,000 people. East Berlin 1,200,000.

When the Wall came, Aug. 13, 1961, West Berlin's bus and street-car systems were independent.

The Wall cut Berlin's other means of public transport. The elevated trains, operated by the East German railways and ringing the entire city, stopped running between East and West, except for one line ending in East Berlin's Friedrichstrasse station.

The elevated in West Berlin, boycotted by many West Berliners, runs on power from the East. The station platforms are illuminated by West Berlin power.

The Wall also severed subway links between East and West Berlin. The subway used to be a common route for East Germans escaping to the West. Two West Berlin subway lines still traverse East Berlin, but only one makes a stop—at Friedrichstrasse. Persons authorized to enter East Berlin may leave the train there.

END AT WALL

Each half of the city has its own water and gas supply.

Each side's public transportation system ends at the Wall. You cannot telephone a friend in the East from West Berlin. Nor can East Berliners call friends in West Berlin.

Since the Wall came up, West and East Berliners can't visit one another.

But the division didn't start with the Wall.

It dates back to the blockade, 1948-49. Since then the Western part of Berlin has striven to make itself independent of the East.

A small part of West Berlin's power consumption is supplied from the East and is paid for under a general trade agreement. A small fraction of the gas consumed by West Berliners comes from the East, to illuminate some border streets.

Not a drop of the 100,000,000 gallons of water West Berlin uses daily is supplied by the East nor do West Berliners sell their water to the Red-ruled part of the city.

CUT PHONES

In 1952, the East Berlin postal authorities overnight cut telephone communications with West Berlin.

Mail was exchanged fairly freely before the Wall. Now it is restricted to a few deliveries by truck and rail each day. Trucks may cross only at the Heinrich Heine checkpoint for West Germans, on the border between the American sector and East Berlin.

An intricate network of sewer pipes criss-crosses the city, east and west. Sewage flows to low-lying sumps whence it is pumped to sewage fields in East Berlin and the nearby countryside. Only 10 per cent of West Berlin's sewage is dumped in the West.

Many people made their escape through the sewers soon after the Wall came. Now, all sewer pipes between the halves of Berlin are blocked by steel bars.

Shopping List Rare, Unusual

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—A circular bookcase, a flame gun and two poodles . . .

Such is the unusual shopping list of William Holden, a Saskatchewan wheat farmer's son who at 33 is one of the youngest executives to crash the inner circles of British publishing.

A native of Indian Head, Sask. and graduate of the University of Western Ontario, Holden has just been named a director on the board of William Heinemann Limited, a leading British publishing company.

One of his functions is to arrange television interviews for visiting authors and "generally keep them happy."

Among the writers with whom he has been involved recently are Erskine Caldwell of Tobacca Road fame and S. J. Perelman, specialist in esoteric vocabulary.

It was Perelman who asked for the bookcase, two poodles to pull it and a flame gun to beat off intruders.

Holden has risen fast in British publishing. He first came here during summer holidays, liked it and decided to "come back."

He did so in 1951. Having had experience with the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, he worked for a year at Reuters news agency in London. In 1955 he went into publishing and four years later joined his present firm.

To a reporter who asked whether there is much difference between the world of a wire-service editor, with its round-the-clock pressures, and

Daily Colonist, Victoria 27
Saturday, Nov. 17, 1962

the quieter pace of publishing, Holden replied:

"There isn't really all that much of a gap, you know. Editors in news agencies are made up to a considerable extent of men who feel they are writers manqués, who are always waiting for a chance to work on the novel they know they have in them, or who want to get into publicity or something less exacting."

Peking Protests!

Red Chinese Attack Biggest Yet

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Communist Chinese forces Friday launched a massive counter-attack with artillery and mortar fire on Indian troops at the eastern end of the disputed China-India border.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman said the morning attack north and west of the key town of Walong had touched off what appeared to be the heaviest fighting on the border since major clashes began in October.

PROTEST NOTE

Meanwhile, China sent India a note protesting the massing of Indian troops on the border "in preparation for a new attack."

The note accused the Indians of opening heavy artillery fire on both ends of the border in recent days and repeated charges that one of the places where the buildup was taking place was Chusul, a key town in Ladakh, Kashmir, on the Indian side of what China regards as the border.

PUSHED BACK

In their first offensive Friday the Chinese got to the outskirts of Walong but were pushed back by the Indians a mile or two from the town, the spokesman said.

He said despite heavy Chinese fire Indian troops had managed to occupy the forward slopes of a Chinese position.

MORTAR FIRE

The Chinese were using artillery and mortar fire against the Indians and heavy reinforcements were believed to have reached the Chinese division reported in the Walong area some days ago.

Walong is a small administrative centre of 200 to 300 people in the Lohit River valley some 5,000 feet up in the Himalayas. The town is 17 miles inside the McMahon Line, which India recognizes as the border with China but China does not.

OIL FIELDS

The Indian army has strongly reinforced Walong in a bid to halt the Chinese advance into an area which contains India's most important oil fields at Digbol and Nahorkatiya. There are also coal fields in the Assam area and British-owned tea plantations.

Earlier, Prime Minister Nehru turned down a proposal that India start compulsory military training on the grounds it would "not be wise."

Little 'Filth' for Youth Doesn't Do Any Harm

CALGARY (CP) — A "sampling" of pornographic literature doesn't do a child any harm, Vancouver Island author Roderick Haig-Brown said Friday.

Mr. Haig-Brown, who is also a juvenile court judge at Campbell River, said in an interview he wouldn't sanction mass reading of pornography by any age group "but a sampling by healthy individuals, including children, doesn't hurt."

"Of course, one wouldn't recommend this type of reading to unhealthy minds who get warped pleasure from that sort of thing," he said.

Mr. Haig-Brown, here to give a lecture on his latest juvenile book, said juvenile books are better than ever but one problem in their publication is interference from editors and publishers.

"Many editors put out books they shouldn't," he said. "Also, there's a tendency by them to reduce unusual talent."

Mr. Haig-Brown will travel to Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Saskatoon as he continues his western tour.

CAR DEATH THIRD IN 30 HOURS

By BOB PETHICK

Death struck its third blow in about 30 hours on southern Vancouver Island highways yesterday—this time in a shattering two-car crash on the Malahat.

Felix Luckovich, 57, of Shawnigan Lake, driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway at 3:35 p.m., died almost instantly when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Helmut Mamte of the PPCLI at Work Point Barracks. Mr. Mamte was uninjured.

Dennis Fitzpatrick, also of the PPCLI at Work Point, was a passenger in the Mamte car. He was taken to hospital with severe face cuts caused when he smashed into the windshield and was later released.

Sidney-area crashes Thursday took two lives. (See Page 10.)

The accident took place one mile south of Mill Bay on a 60-mile-an-hour stretch. Police said the road was straight but dipped near the scene of the wreck.

Witnesses said the dead man was still in his car when police arrived.

The Luckovich car ended up on the right shoulder of the road. The overhanging car presumably swerved after hitting Luckovich and lurched to a stop on the right shoulder of the road.

Distance between the cars was 28 feet. Both were total wrecks.

EXPECTING HIM
A hunting companion of Mr. Luckovich said he was expecting him to call in on his return from Victoria.

"We knew he left Victoria at noon or around then," said W. J. Clark, 55, View Avenue. "We were expecting him but when I arrived at the accident his car was about 200 feet behind our turnoff."

"I got three about five minutes after it happened. You

Collector Stops Dag Stamp Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sale of 1,000,000 deliberately misprinted stamps was halted Friday by the U.S. post office department under a restraining order obtained by a New Jersey man who has 50 of 400 original, unintentional misprints. Public sale of the Dag Hammarskjöld stamps was not stopped, however, until an eager public had gobbled up $75,000 of them in less than four hours.

Castro Threat Wasted U.S. Warns Russia

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Cuban crisis sharpened Friday with Russia defending Premier Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. planes and the U.S. declaring flights over Cuba would continue with all protection necessary.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin said Castro's protest against the U.S. reconnaissance flights "is perfectly legitimate" and that attempts to violate Cuban sovereignty "cannot but provoke universal condemnation."

Zorin spoke in the United Nations General Assembly's main political committee, where a Cuban representative had asserted Castro's warning to shoot down planes was already being put into effect.

But U.S. delegate Arthur Dean told the committee Castro's threat carries no weight with the U.S.

OWN MEASURES
Dean said that pending U.S.-Soviet agreement on all measures for verification of removal of offensive weapons from Cuba "the United States will be forced to continue to take its own appropriate measures to assure against the possibility that the people of the western hemisphere may be threatened from Cuban soil."

The exchange came amid mounting concern that the Cuban crisis may be approaching a new danger point.

CONSULTATION
In Washington, President Kennedy called in his top military and diplomatic advisers for consultation.

The U.S. state department declared that Castro had rejected all efforts to obtain adequate verification of a secret arms buildup in Cuba. Therefore, it added, the U.S. and other members of the OAS are compelled to take whatever steps are necessary to guard against threats to their peace and security.

Vast U.S. Aid Depends On Nehru

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press

President Kennedy, paying increasing attention to the India-China border war, is considering a vast arms and program for India if he can reach a firm understanding with Prime Minister Nehru.

Just what Kennedy may have in mind is not too clear, but this much seems evident: Kennedy wants to see the harsh note of anti-Americanism eliminated or toned down in India; he wants to hear Nehru publicly declare support of U.S. foreign policy; and he wants to obtain convincing evidence for Congress that India is on the side of democracy and on the side of the United States in its struggle against communism.

Nehru may not find it easy to provide Kennedy with all that he wants. Traditionally, India has followed a policy of non-alignment, accepting help not only from the West but also from Russia. This has annoyed U.S. legislators. More annoying was the biting criticism of U.S. policy voiced by V. K. Krishna Menon, Nehru's former defence minister.

As for the Cuban situation, he said: "The thing is not over yet. The matter still calls for our full attention."

PARTNER WARNED
Adenauer arrived home after his ruling Christian Democratic Union wanted its junior coalition partner, the Free Democratic Party, against any new ultimatum.

CDU parliamentary leader Heinrich von Brentano met FDP leader Erich Mende and warned him against bringing the threatened cabinet crisis to a head.

But Mende told reporters when he arrived in Berlin for a private conference Friday night his party did not intend to put forward an ultimatum because coming negotiations over Berlin mean West Germany needs "a fully active government and a constructive opposition."

STRAUSS EYED
The FDP is preparing for a party congress in Nuremberg next Monday amid unconfirmed reports it will demand the resignation of Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss for his actions in connection with the government's charges against the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel (The Mirror) — a persistent critic of the defence minister.

The opposition Social Democrats have already called for the dismissal of Strauss.

Home from U.S. New Spiegel Crisis Greets Adenauer

BONN (Reuters) — West German Chancellor Adenauer returned here by air from Washington Friday night to face a renewed threat to his coalition regime over Der Spiegel affair.

As for the Cuban situation, he said: "The thing is not over yet. The matter still calls for our full attention."

Indians Had Only Courage to Hurl at Reds

By PETER WORTHINGTON

NORTHEAST FRONTIER

When you're with India's frontier fighting troops in the Himalayas the "war" with China seems almost casual. Up here, 14,000 feet in the clouds, you learn facts about the war that never reach the comparatively civilized south.

Among these troops in the Northeast Frontier Agency there's a feeling of courage, humiliation and embarrassment that the Chinese might them napping in the surprise attack last month and won so easily.

Officers and men tell you a horrifying tale of unpreparedness that is almost criminal negligence.

When the Chinese poured over the controversial McMahon Line at Namscha River on the Tibetan border near Bhutan, the Indian troops holding the line had less than minimum requirements of ammunition.

More ammo had been requested but no action had been taken at headquarters toward replenishing the deficiencies.

The Indian troops had virtually nothing but their courage to hurl at the enemy.

A platoon of the First Sikh Regiment on the border had only enough ammunition to beat back two waves of five to six hundred each. The platoon was then ordered to withdraw.

But, to a man, the Sikhs refused to budge and fought the Chinese using their empty Lee Enfield rifles as clubs and slashing with their bayonets.

The platoon was annihilated; not a man survived.

At Bumla Pass a few miles away, another Sikh platoon (35 soldiers) was in a similar situation.

After fighting Chinese off for 12 hours by carefully rationing ammo and controlling fire, they finally ran out of ammo.

In the final Chinese assault Sikh warriors Bahan Singh, regimental wrestling champion, leapt from his trench and charged at the enemy empty-handed.

Suddenly what was left of the platoon followed him over the top and was rushing yelling at the enemy.

The Chinese were so startled at this insane charge they suspected a trick and fell back.

The handful of survivors then made an orderly withdrawal.

"I spoke to Sepoy (private) Bahan and his eyes fired up."

"My God, sir, my blood won't sleep until I get a chance to fight them again," he said. Another platoon sacrificed itself at the village of Jang where they held a bridge until remnants of the brigade had escaped over it.

This platoon is now just a

At the time of the attack about a brigade (5,000 men) guarded 15 miles of Tibetan frontier through which two vital passes ran—the Khardung and Bumla passes.

These valleys converge at the town of Thawang, 10 miles south. This is considered the gateway to India (the Dalai Lama used it in 1959) and of immense importance strategically.

"We were occupying political positions not tactical defences," a brigadier told me with disgust.

Thief Deported from U.S. Imprisoned in Nanaimo

PORT ALBERT — A three-year prison term has been ordered by Magistrate W. E. MacLeod for a 22-year-old Ontario man who pleaded guilty to charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Robert MacDonald, deported from the U.S. recently after conviction for driving a stolen car across a state line, said he had nothing to say before sentence.

The charge involved a break-in at a city home where clothing, car keys and the car were stolen.

James Cecil Fleish was sentenced to four concurrent terms of six months each when he pleaded guilty in both local courts to passing worthless cheques.

PARRSVILLE — About 70 members and guests at the annual installation banquet of Parkville and District Chapter of Commerce saw Mrs. Mary Sutherland installed as the first woman president in the history of the local chapter. Other officers installed by E. D. Thwaites of Qualicum Beach, old-time resident of Dabb, president; Mrs. O. Fee, secretary, and treasurer Mrs. Aline Stanhope. Committee chairman is John Aitken. Date for the rummage and home cooking sale is Nov. 24 and the best cadet of Canada award will be presented to Chalmers cadet G. Mast Dec. 7.

NANAIMO — Departure Bay residents have elected Dr. D. Ellis, D. Holbrook and C. Shoop as rural representatives on the school board.

The Departure Bay PTA has decided playground equipment will be installed behind the school on the north side and will assume responsibility, as far as possible, for transportation of children to Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra's special concert at Woodlands Junior High Dec. 2.

LADYSMITH — B.C. Hospital Insurance Service has approved sketch plans for the proposed $250,000 Ladysmith General Hospital addition, which is to include six beds for children and four for adults. A money bylaw vote on the addition is likely next month.

of the south Island health unit and sanitary inspector Norman Lewis.

PARRSVILLE — A pre-Christmas tea and bazaar will be held by the women's auxiliary to Parkville volunteer fire department in the firehall Thursday, beginning at 2:30 p.m. There will be door and contest prizes and many items suitable for Christmas gifts.

DUNCAN — A total of 80 records was completed by the Dairy Herd Improvement Association here in October, including 30 Holsteins, 17 Jerseys, seven crossbreds, three Guernseys and three Ayrshires cows. Producing over 400 pounds of butterfat were 21 mature animals and five two-year-olds gave over 365 pounds. Winners of sacks of feed were A. Baumgart with four-year-old Holstein Vicky producing 17.329 pounds of milk and 702 pounds of butterfat in 305 days, and Genoa Bay Farm with two-year-old Guernsey Genoa Mary with 10,047 pounds of milk and 685 pounds of butterfat in the same time. High herd average was won by Mr. Baumgart with 1.521 pounds of milk and 548 pounds of butterfat. The sacks of feed were donated by Cowichan Creamery Association, B & K Milling and Buckenfield's.

NANAIMO — RCMP report that an inquest into the death of Del Roberts, killed in an automobile accident on the Nanaimo Lakes Road some time ago, has been adjourned indefinitely.

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo Club will form a junior club for boys between nine and 15 years of age, if sufficient interest is found. J. R. Weeks announced that a meeting will be held in the club rooms in the Windsor Building at 7 p.m. Monday.

Cafe Men Shun Price Hike

NANAIMO — Most hotels and restaurants here said Friday prices of their meals will not be raised as a result of new minimum wage rates for employees set by the B.C. Industrial Relations Board.

One hotel felt some cost increase would have to be passed on immediately and another thought an increase would have to be made later. But most considered the cost of reprinting menus would make any change without advantage.

COOMBS — Arrowmuth Agricultural Association annual military wheel drive prize winners for high scores were Mrs. Claude Baxter and E. A. Anderson. Table winners were Mrs. I. Neden, Mrs. J. Neden and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Brittain, consolation winners Mr. and Mrs. P. Heyland and Mr. and Mrs. E. Brand.

Trial for Baby Son's Death Ruled for Church Worker

VANCOUVER — Stacey Charles Peters, 31, a part-time missionary at Alert Bay, Friday was committed to trial on a charge of non-capital murder in the death of his five-month-old son.

The infant was pronounced dead Oct. 30 when brought to hospital by his mother.

A coroner's jury later found a skull fracture and brain hemorrhage caused his death. The blows had been inflicted the previous day. Dr. Eric Robertson, a pathologist, testified at a preliminary hearing Friday the child was extensively bruised on the upper body. He had suffered rib fractures and a fractured skull. He said it was possible the injuries were caused by a fall from an 18-inch-high stroller, but "personally I doubt it."

Victorian Fined For Car Death

Three Victorians were fined a total of $400 in up-Island courts Friday on traffic charges, one resulting from a fatal two-car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway 11 miles south of Duncan Oct. 7. J. R. James was fined $100 in Duncan after pleading guilty to careless driving. Court was told his panel truck hit the car of Norman Cook of Victoria, resulting in the death of Mrs. Mabel Taylor, 65, a passenger in the Cook car. Decision was deferred on a licence suspension. Harold R. Gent of Victoria pleaded guilty in Duncan to careless driving Nov. 12. Police said he fell asleep at the wheel, causing a $1,000 two-car collision on the highway. Gent was fined $100 and his licence was suspended for 30 days. In Nanaimo, George Underwood of Saanich was fined $300 for impaired driving. He was prohibited from driving for six months.

Around the Island

this district, were first vice-president E. A. Terrien, second vice-president J. C. Brooks, secretary Mrs. Mary Rushton, treasurer Walter Iott. Mrs. Rushton and Mr. Iott were re-elected.

LADYSMITH — A Ladysmith father and son, Charles H. Lumsley and Edward C. Lumsley, were fined $25 each in police court for driving without a driver's licence.

DUNCAN — Two members of the women's auxiliary of the Legion, Cowichan branch, Mrs. Nellie Hogg and Mrs. Mabel Cross, have been nominated for president of the auxiliary. Elected by acclamation to other positions were Mrs. Joanne South, first vice-president; Mrs. Ivy Chadwick, second vice-president; Mrs. Mary Wood, secretary, and Dorothy Castle, treasurer. At the next meeting Dec. 12 the president will be elected and a Christmas smorgasbord and entertainment will be provided.

QUALICUM BEACH — Terms of office of village commissioners H. C. Good and Edward McMillan expire this year, as does the term of school trustee Mrs. George Nelson. Nominations for two commissioners to serve two-year terms and one trustee for a two-year term will close at noon Nov. 26. If a poll is necessary, it will be held Dec. 6.

NANAIMO — As a result of island-wide negotiations between school teachers and trustees on a new wage scale, teachers in School District 68 are to receive an increase of 4.1 per cent in wages for 1963. Trustees Harold Godfrey and J. Shook announced the signing of a new contract with the teachers' association Friday. Ratification came just before the deadline of Nov. 15, after which arbitration would have been obligatory.

DUNCAN — The parents' committee of the Duncan Canadian Scottish cadet unit has elected a new slate of officers including William NANAIMO — Break-in activity in this area continued early yesterday with raids at Edward's Tire Service on Terminal Avenue, the Terminal Service Station and the Lantville Coffee Bar. Only loss reported was a small amount of cash from the Edward's firm.

DUNCAN — Local resident Jack F. Turner, who said he was driving a half-ton pickup truck to get medicine for a friend who suffers from diabetes, admitted driving without a licence and was fined $15 in magistrate's court. Other fines were Kiyoshi Kawagoyi of Vancouver and Shinichi Kimura of Steveston, $25 each for fishing inside a boundary line; Bert George of Duncan, $15, and Charles MacNeill of Bowen Island, $12, both for minor in possession of liquor; Jack Eldred of Duncan, $15 for speeding; and Wesley Leidenus of Crofton, $12 for no flags or flares at a disabled truck.

GANGES — Cheque for $1,800 was given to school board chairman G. S. Humphreys by J. R. Corney, chairman of the B.C. TB Society's Duncan branch, at the opening Tuesday of the new $17,953 Gulf Islands school board office and health unit. On hand were Archdeacon G. H. Holmes, Galliano trustee Mrs. Hubert Barner, Dr. A. N. Beattie and public health nurse Dorothy Ladner.

Average Topped

United Fund Misses By $9,000

Victoria's 1962 United Appeal will fall 2½ per cent—just $9,000—short of target, but the 7 per cent increase in donations tops the national average.

Campaign chairman Justin Harbord, ending a three-year term of service last night, said the final total would reach $331,000. Target was $360,000.

"On the whole, I'm fairly pleased, although somewhat disappointed on coming so near and still not hitting the target," he said.

"But we've increased our total donations 7 per cent and at the same time made up for the loss of $7,500 from the B.C. Electric."

"On top of the 15 per cent increase in donations last year, the very satisfactory increase of 11 per cent a year in two years is almost three times the national average."

Calculated Forecast

It was considered nationally by United appeal funds that a 4 per cent yearly increase was "very satisfactory," he said.

Exactly $337,210 was in the hands of accountants yesterday, with the remainder "to come, it's pledged and it will come," said executive secretary Jack Anguish.

The predicted final total was a "pretty carefully calculated forecast."

While the fund drive officially ended yesterday, a cleanup will continue, with canvassers committed to complete their tasks.

Returns from all divisions were still coming in, as were personal gifts.

"In closing off the campaign officially," Mr. Harbord said, "we do so with the knowledge we could reach the target by extending the campaign."

"We could go back again to a number of generous contributors, but we decided not to do so in the long-term interests of the campaign."

'Would Be Unfair'

"It was done last year... but such action might create the tendency in major donors to hold back in anticipation of a re-canvass," Mr. Harbord continued.

"It would be unfair to the committee next year."

He said he anticipates the effect of falling short of the target would be that directors will have to take funds from the appeal reserve to make up the balance.

But reserves, "which under good management of the community funds should not fall less than 10 per cent," would be near depletion following the withdrawal of $9,000, Mr. Harbord said.

"In a year of increased unemployment, increased demands on the fund—and a bad collection picture—the fund could be in a serious condition (without reserves)," he said.

Mr. Harbord announced he was "now retiring from fund-raising activities for at least three or four years since I believe I have exhausted most of my ideas of value to the community in this connection."

Three Targets Hit

He expressed "deep appreciation to all the volunteers who worked harder, longer and more enthusiastically than ever before."

"I hope the community will give the same support to the incoming chairmen (J. Alan Baker and John Wallace) as it has so graciously given to me," he concluded.

Three divisions passed their targets. Division, chairmen, collections, total:

• Advance gifts: Col. B. Russel Ker and J. A. Wallace, $77,577 (102 per cent of $76,091).

• National firms (out of town offices): Col. Ker, $2,316 (115 per cent of $2,000).

• Industrial-commercial: P. B. Scurrah and Alan Neuert, $8,951 (108 per cent of $8,328).

Officials anticipate three other divisions will reach or exceed their targets—payroll, small firms and residential.

At 4 p.m. yesterday, residential had reached $65,712 of the $70,000 target.

Chairman Mrs. Daryl Elford still had not received back 200 kits of 1,900 issued.

Clean Walk Or Pay!

Fines up to $250 will face businessmen who don't keep their sidewalks clean if the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has its way.

On recommendation of the retail merchants group, chamber directors yesterday voted to ask city council to enforce a bylaw now on the books.

Sweeping litter from the sidewalks into the street also is illegal.

Chamber Investigates

Tap Smoke Clouds for Power?

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

A scheme to alleviate Victoria's smoke problem, utilize an idle factory and generate cheap hydro for the city is under consideration by a Victoria Chamber of Commerce committee of one.

Indications are he's going to decide it's a great idea but it won't work.

Directors of the chamber yesterday instructed Courtney Haddock, who didn't say it would work, to investigate the possibility of burning lumber mill waste in the former Sidney Roofing plant to generate Victoria's electricity.

Much of Victoria's air pollution problem is caused by lumber mills burning waste products to get rid of them.

When Sidney Roofing occupied the Victoria harbor premises up to 1960, much of this "hog fuel" from local mills was burned to produce steam in two boilers still at the plant. "Hog fuel" burns with less smoke when so used.

The roofing company's operations were moved to the Mainland in 1960 and the Victoria plant has been idle since.

W. G. (Pete) Wirtanen,

chief engineer at a Victoria lumber mill, last night said the idea is fine—except it wouldn't produce enough power to make it worth the bother.

He estimated Victoria probably uses about 75,000 kilowatts and the boilers at the roofing plant might generate 1,500.

Several years ago in Vancouver there were proposals to burn "hog fuel" to generate power, but the hydro company wound up using natural gas. Some lumber mills, including B.C. Forest Products in Victoria, burn "hog fuel" to generate electricity for their own use.

At the chamber meeting, Mr. Haddock stressed he was not proposing the scheme, having no idea whether it was technically feasible, but merely saying it should be investigated.

Doubt Cast Already

Lease Along Road

Mac-Powell Bid Hit by Squire

PORT ALBERNI — Local MLA John Squire has asked Highways Minister Gagliardi to hold up a lease of land within the Alberni-Tofino road allowance until further information is forthcoming.

Notice was published early this month in local papers of the department's intention to lease to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. parcels of land within the road allowance as a trucking road.

REASON ASSUMED

The notice was over the signature of John Morris, highways department district engineer.

"I am assuming," Mr. Squire said, "that the reason for the lease application by the logging company is to provide them with a road parallel to the highway so the company will not be obliged to license their trucks or pay road tax on fuel purchases."

OTHER AIDS SEEN

"If this is behind the company's application then it is in my opinion a very dangerous precedent will be established and any and all logging companies will be allowed to make similar applications to avoid fuel tax and licences."

Mr. Squire said concern is being expressed by Tofino-Ucluelet residents. He received a phone call Friday from a Tofino village commissioner telling of steps being taken to gain more information.

VANCOUVER — Former

Duncan IWA president Weldon

Jubenville, defeated in his bid for re-election this year after a bitter intra-local fight, has been beaten again—this time in balloting for second vice-president of the IWA in B.C. Members elected Jack Holst of Prince George instead, and also chose Bob Ross of Vancouver as third vice-president and Fred Fieber of Vancouver as secretary-treasurer.

No Cells, Walls

First B.C. Prison Camp Starts Near Sayward

SAYWARD — Construction will start here today on Vancouver Island's first provincial prison camp.

A party of 20 provincial jail inmates from other parts of B.C. arrived yesterday to start building quarters for 60 prisoners and an administrative staff of 13.

NO GUN TOWERS

To be called the Snowden Forest Camp, the minimum-security jail will have no cells, bars, high walls or gun towers.

The 160-acre camp is to be the forerunner of others on Vancouver Island, but further sites have not been chosen.

Camp inmates, largely Island residents, will work in the nearby Sayward Forest on a B.C. Forest Service project. They will receive "nominal wages."

Attorney-general's department officials say similar camps on the B.C. mainland have been among the most successful rehabilitation moves taken in the field of penology.

From seven such camps there have been only four escapes in six years.

The Sayward camp, 230 miles from Victoria on the Island's northeast coast, is described as the best site found so far.

Leslie Baker, furiously raking a bumper crop of leaves.

George Dixon, a former E & N railroader, win-ing a position to help themselves will not be able to avail themselves of the assistance the United Appeal agencies offer."

Chairman T. Odell, more optimistic, believes there is still time to bring collections to a figure reasonably near the objective. There has been a noticeable lag in receipts during the last week, and Mrs. MacDougall and Mr. Odell are analyzing returns to find out why.

Bigger goal this year is due to additional agencies on the roster of those depending on the fund.

No Idea Why, Say Nanaimo Officials

NANAIMO — Considerable anxiety has been expressed by officials of the Nanaimo United Appeal over prospects of reaching the objective this year.

Contributions are about $25,000 short of the total and about $11,300 short of the amount raised last year at the same point.

As the goal of $61,691 is more than $10,000 greater than last year, chances of raising the whole amount do not appear good.

Texada Island Shaft Strike Banned by Court Injunction

GEORGE EMMERSON

VANCOUVER—Mr. Justice F. C. Munroe in Supreme Court granted an injunction Friday which bans a proposed strike by 64 employees of Inspiration Mining and Development Co. Ltd. on Texada Island.

The firm is under contract to Texada Mines Ltd. to sink a mining shaft.

The Inspiration sought the injunction against six union locals which recently voted to strike in a wage dispute.

The locals are Operating Engineers, local 115; Tunnel and Rock Workers, local 168; Construction and General Laborers, local 602, 1670, and 1093; and Building Material, Construction and Fuel Truck Drivers, local 213.

ONLY ONE

Inspiration said the proposed strike was illegal as only one local had complied with the provisions of the Labor Relations Act requiring unions to notify the minister of labor within 18 days whether they have accepted or rejected a conciliation award.

Two Men Lived

Thrown clear of violent wreck on Pemberton Road near Carberry Gardens yesterday, driver and passenger escaped serious injury. Wayne Reed, 19, of 1271 Faithful, the driver, and AB Ernest P. Carpenter, 19, HMCS Skeena, were taken to hospital. Both were released after treatment. Police said car failed to make curve, hit power pole, then struck small parked car. (Robin Clarke.)

Billiard Halls Co-Ed?

The last male stronghold in Victoria is under fire.

No woman, under the city bylaw passed in 1917, may enter a local billiard establishment. Men must be over 18.

Victoria billiard parlor operators are petitioning city council for a change in the bylaw to allow both men and women over 16 to "enjoy the use of our premises."

The group operates four existing billiard establishments in the city and a fifth under construction in the 800-block Yates.

Parachute Seat Belt Big Bargain Today

BELT ON THE SEAT: Following on the excellent work done by local car clubs, Victoria Lions' Club will be selling seat belts and installing them free of cost at A.M. Mullard Money's body shop, 337 View, today and Sunday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Lion

Chet McHugh tells us the belt is the Irving Parachute Seat Belt and cost will be $6.25—half the regular retail price. It's the best belt available, at any price, he says.

QUEENIE: The Portland family which liked Queenie, the Beacon Hill Park horse, so much they sent $5 to city hall last year to buy her treats has sent through another $5 to parks supervisor Herb Warren to buy her Christmas treats.

By Ted Shackleford

POLITICIAN: We goofed with the item yesterday about the arch-doe of amalgamation, living in the city—despite checks with the phone book and the city directory. And Joe, with great gloe, pointed out our mistake at a meeting of Victoria Lions' Club yesterday.

"I saw the light six months ago," he said. "I no longer live at 852 Queens Avenue. That's all he said during the meeting. What he omitted to say is that, although he doesn't live in the city any more, he still doesn't live in Saanich. He's living in unorganized territory."

COOL CAT: An Esquimalt cat owes its life to the quick thinking of a bus driver. On Admirals Road about 10 o'clock Thursday night the cat ran onto the roadway but "froz" in the lights of the bus. The driver stopped and waited while a passerby picked the cat up in his arms and carried it to safety.

Peking Protests!

Red Chinese Attack Biggest Yet

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Communist Chinese forces Friday launched a massive counter-attack with artillery and mortar fire on Indian troops at the eastern end of the disputed China-India border.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman said the morning attack north and west of the key town of Walong had touched off what appeared to be the heaviest fighting on the border since major clashes began in October.

PROTEST NOTE

Meanwhile, China sent India a note protesting the massing of Indian troops on the border "in preparation for a new attack."

The note accused the Indians of opening heavy artillery fire on both ends of the border in recent days and repeated charges that one of the places where the fighting was taking place was Chumol, a key town in Ladakh, Kashmir, on the Indian side of what China regards as the border.

PUNED BACK

In their first offensive Friday the Chinese got to the outskirts of Walong but were pushed back by the Indians a mile or two from the town, the spokesman said.

He said despite heavy Chinese fire Indian troops had managed to occupy the forward slopes of a Chinese position.

MORTAR FIRE

The Chinese were using artillery and mortar fire against the Indians and heavy reinforcements were believed to have reached the Chinese division reported in the Walong area some days ago.

Walong is a small administrative centre of 200 to 300 people in the Lohit River valley some 5,000 feet up in the Himalayas. The town is 17 miles inside the McMahon Line, which India recognizes as the border with China but China does not.

OIL FIELDS

The Indian army has strongly reinforced Walong in a bid to halt the Chinese advance into an area which contains India's most important oil fields at Digboi and Nahorkatiya. There are also oil fields in the Assam area and British-owned tea plantations.

Earlier, Prime Minister Nehru turned down a proposal that India start compulsory military training on the grounds it would "not be wise."

Little 'Filth' No Harm

CALGARY (CP) — A "sampling" of pornographic literature doesn't do a child any harm, Vancouver Island author Roderick Haig-Brown said Friday.

Mr. Haig-Brown, who is also a juvenile court judge at Campbell River, said in an interview he wouldn't sanction mass reading of pornography by any age group "but a sampling by healthy individuals, including children, doesn't hurt."

"Of course, one wouldn't recommend this type of reading to unhealthy minds who get warped pleasure from that sort of thing," he said.

Mr. Haig-Brown, here to give a lecture on his latest juvenile book, said juvenile books are better than ever but one problem in their publication is interference from editors and publishers.

"Many editors put out books they shouldn't," he said. "Also, there's a tendency by them to reduce unusual talent."

Mr. Haig-Brown will travel to Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Saskatoon as he continues his western tour.

Vast U.S. Aid Depends On Nehru

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press

President Kennedy, paying increasing attention to the India-China border war, is considering a vast arms and program for India if he can reach a firm understanding with Prime Minister Nehru.

Just what Kennedy may have in mind is not too clear, but this much seems evident: Kennedy wants to see the harsh note of anti-Americanism eliminated or toned down in India; he wants to hear Nehru publicly declare support of U.S. foreign policy; and he wants to obtain convincing evidence for Congress that India is on the side of democracy and on the side of the United States in its struggle against communism.

So far the United States has shipped about $5,000,000 worth of military equipment to India. Just how much further it is prepared to go has not been disclosed by the White House. The step up in the arms flow will take time. There will be no sudden rush to load Nehru down with all kinds of expensive equipment. But Americans believe time is on their side.

Return of Respect

Now Nehru has eliminated Krishna Menon from the cabinet—a source of high satisfaction to the Kennedy administration. But Kennedy's men want India's friendship expressed in harder terms. What they now talk about is a military assistance program based on mutual "trust, respect and understanding" which, they say, "we've not always had in the past."

New Spiegel Crisis Greets Adenauer

BONN (Reuters)—West German Chancellor Adenauer returned here by air from Washington Friday night to face a renewed threat to his coalition regime over Der Spiegel affair.

As for the Cuban situation, he said: "The thing is not over yet. The matter still calls for our full attention."

PARLEY WARNED

Adenauer arrived home after his ruling Christian Democratic Union warned its junior coalition partner, the Free Democratic Party, against any new ultimatum. CDU parliamentary leader Heinrich von Brentano met FDP leader Erich Mende and warned him against bringing the threatened cabinet crisis to a head.

But Mende told reporters

DEATH TOLL MOUNTS TO THREE

By BOB PETHICK

Death struck its third blow in about 30 hours on southern Vancouver Island highways yesterday—this time in a shattering two-car crash on the Malahat.

Felix Luckovich, 57, of Shawnigan Lake, driving north on the Trans-Canada Highway at 3:35 p.m., died almost instantly when his car was struck from behind by a car driven by Helmut Mamte of the PPCLI at Work Point Barracks. Mr. Mamte was uninjured.

Dennis Fitzpatrick, also of the PPCLI at Work Point, was a passenger in the Mamte car. He was taken to hospital with severe face cuts caused when he smashed into the windshield and was later released. Sidney-area crashes Thursday took two lives. (See Page 10.)

The accident took place one mile south of Mill Bay on a 60-mile-an-hour stretch. Police said the road was straight but dipped near the scene of the wreck.

STILL IN CAR

Witnesses said the dead man was still in his car when police arrived.

The Luckovich car ended up on the right shoulder of the road. The overtaking car presumably swerved after hitting Luckovich and lurched to a stop on the right shoulder of the road.

Distance between the cars was 28 feet. Both were total wrecks.

EXPECTING HIM

A hunting companion of Mr. Luckovich said he was expecting him to call in on his return from Victoria.

"We knew he left Victoria at noon or around then," said W. J. Clark, Sea View Avenue. "We were expecting him but when I arrived at the accident his car was about 200 feet beyond our turnoff."

BULLETIN

Joseph Emerson, about 64, of South Wellington, died of injuries suffered when he was knocked down by a car while crossing the Trans-Canada Highway about four miles south of Nanaimo last night.

His death brings the total of island traffic fatalities to four in the past 36 hours. No further details were available at press time.

Only Miracle Left In Atlantic Search

NEW YORK (UPI)—A fierce storm yesterday forced two ships to give up the hunt for 18 crewmen lost at sea from a burning, explosive-loaded Greek freighter, leaving a lone plane and a wave-battered submarine to keep up the search, hoping for a miracle.

The sailors, last seen Thursday night bobbing in the boiling sea trying desperately to cling together, were part of the 25-man crew that abandoned the Greek freighter Captain George just before darkness as flames ate steadily toward 400 tons of explosives on board.

Seven were quickly picked up by two freighters that had stayed in the area as long as they could in the face of the howling storm.

DEADLY SMOKE

The captain and his 24-man crew stayed aboard the 422-foot freighter fighting an 18-hour battle against the searing heat and deadly sulphuric-dioxide smoke before going overboard in two lifeboats.

At last report, the Captain George was still afloat and burning. The Coast Guard said its cargo of dynamite, nitrates and other explosives "could go" at any time, blasting the ship to bits.

Indians Had Only Courage to Hurl at Reds

By PETER WORTHINGTON
NORTHEAST FRONTIER

When you're with India's frontier fighting troops in the Himalayas the "war" with China seems slighter casual.

Up here, 14,000 feet in the clouds, you learn facts about the war that never reach the comparatively civilized south.

Among these troops in the Northeast Frontier Agency there's a feeling of outrage, humiliation and embarrassment that the Chinese caught them napping in the surprise attack last month and won so easily.

Officers and men tell you a horrifying tale of unpreparedness that is almost criminal negligence.

When the Chinese poured over the controversial McMahon Line at Namkachu River on the Tibetan border near Bhutan, the Indian troops holding the line had less than minimum requirements of ammunition.

More ammo had been requested but no action had been taken at headquarters toward replenishing the deficiencies.

The Indian troops had virtually nothing but their courage to hurl at the enemy.

A platoon of the First Sikh Regiment on the border river had only enough ammunition to beat back two waves of five to six hundred each. The platoon was then ordered to withdraw.

But, to a man, the Sikhs refused to budge and fought the Chinese using their empty Lee Enfield rifles as clubs and slashing with their bayonets.

The platoon was annihilated; not a man survived. At Burma Pass a few miles away, another Sikh platoon (35 soldiers) was in a similar situation.

After fighting Chinese off for 12 hours by carefully rationing ammo and controlling fire, they finally ran out of ammo.

In the final Chinese assault Sikh mortarsman Baban Singh, regimental wrestling champion, leapt from his trench and charged at the enemy empty-handed.

Suddenly what was left of the platoon followed him over the top and was rushing yelling at the enemy.

The Chinese were so startled at this insane charge they suspected a trick and fell back.

The handful of survivors then made an orderly withdrawal.

I spoke to Sepoy (private) Bahan and his eyes fired up.

"My God, sir, my blood won't sleep until I get a chance to fight them again," he said.

Another platoon sacrificed itself at the village of Jang where they held a bridge until remnants of the brigade had escaped over it.

This platoon is now just a gallant memory.

At the time of the attack about a brigade (5,000 men) guarded 15 miles of Tibetan frontier through which two vital passes ran—the Kinman and Burma passes.

These valleys converge at the town of Tawang, 10 miles south. This is considered the gateway to India (the Dalai Lama used it in 1959) and of immense importance strategically.

"We were occupying political positions, not tactical defences," a brigadier told me with disgust.
